

Allied Forces Continue To Batter North Viets

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. paratroopers battled a stubborn, dug in North Vietnamese force for the fourth day in the central highlands today, while Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government sent 400 Vietnamese riot policemen into the northern Buddhist stronghold of Hue.

Helicopters lifted at least two battalions of American and Vietnamese troops into the fierce action 280 miles north of Saigon. Battlefield reports indicated the Americans may be fighting as many as two regiments — some 1,800 men — of North Viet namese regulars, although the enemy force earlier was estimated at 900 men.

Fighting Heavy
Heavy fighting was reported continuing late into the day. An American military spokesman said 239 North Vietnamese had been killed in the fighting, which began before dawn Tuesday with a Communist attack on a small U.S. encampment. But the spokesman added: "The count undoubtedly will go much higher. Those people up there are more interested in killing North Vietnamese than in counting bodies."

U.S. losses were reported light over-all, but one platoon was badly mauled. U.S. planes had flown 167 sorties so far in the battle, which erupted anew Thursday night in the dense jungles of Kontum province 280 miles north of Saigon. Pitted against units of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division's 1st Brigade, as it prowled Communist infiltration routes near the Laotian border, were an estimated 900 North Vietnamese.

Still Going On
Fighting was reported heavy throughout the day and was still going on late this afternoon, the spokesman reported. The size and determination of the enemy indicated the Communists might be moving to the offensive again after waiting fruitfully for the Buddhists to depose Ky.

As the premier sent riot police into Hue, the failure of the Buddhist campaign was underlined by an announcement that Ky would fly to South Korea.

Rocky Begins Campaign for Another Term

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has officially opened his campaign for reelection to a third four-year term.

Rockefeller launched his campaign Thursday at a sidewalk rally, a women's luncheon and the State Republican party's annual $100-a-plate dinner. The day also marked the 40th birthday of Rockefeller's wife, who was at all the party gatherings. At the dinner in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, Rockefeller promised some 3,000 Republicans he would wage "the greatest fighting campaign the state of New York has ever seen."

Some important party figures expressed concern privately that Rockefeller's split with Mayor John V. Lindsay over tax legislation would hurt him in New York City, and his approval of the state medical aid program, which has been criticized as being too costly, would hurt him Upstate.

Predicts Victory
But Rockefeller predicted a "smashing" victory in November. Lindsay shared the dias with Rockefeller and his running mates, Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson and Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz. Lindsay did not mention the campaign, but he was loudly (Continued on Page 12, Col. 3)

Monday to attend a conference of nine non-Communist nations. Ky's announcement coincided with a declaration by the junta that it had conferred broad new powers on the premier to deal with South Viet Nam's chronic economic and financial problems. Both announcements butressed the general impression (Continued on Page 14, Col. 4)

Differ With Mayor On UR and Traffic

Kingston's Uptown Renewal Plan and the Master Plan on which it is based both call for one-way, northbound traffic on Clinton Avenue, the Uptown Business Men's Association said today.

"The Association's action in advocating return to one-way traffic on that street was not at all inconsistent with its long-standing endorsement of Urban Renewal," said a statement adopted at a special meeting of the Association's Board of Directors on Thursday.

Mayor Is Mistaken
"In fact, documents show that Mayor Garrahan was mistaken when he said (in a statement carried by press and radio on Wednesday) that the Renewal Plan as approved July 13 last

Decision is Deferred To Close City Library

Discussion on future operations of the Kingston City Library and possible curtailment of services or closing of the building, highlighted a special meeting of the Library Board Thursday night.

Chester A. Baltz Jr., president of the Board, called the emergency meeting in light of the decision of the Kingston Board of Education to eliminate any appropriation from the 1966-67 budget to assist in the operation of the library.

Any decision to curtail services or close the library was deferred until after the school district budget is officially passed by the school board, following a public hearing slated for Wednesday, June 15 at 8 p. m. at the George Washington School on Wall Street.

The library trustees expressed the hope that the school board might "reconsider its very serious action," according to Baltz. The increasing use of the city library by students was noted at last night's meeting, and the importance of a library with a good reference section and professional reference librarian was stressed.

Hopes to Focus Attention
The library hopes to focus public attention on the financial plight of the library, and to impress the people of the school district that any curtailment of services or closing of the library will have drastic effects upon the education of the students in the area.

The trustees expressed great reluctance to take any action which would effect the students and the community at large, unless forced to because of the lack of funds.

"The members of the Board of Trustees recognize their responsibility to the community," Baltz said, "but the gap between available funds and the needs of the library has grown so large that it is almost impossible to make up a budget."

Baltz said that the trustees urge all citizens interested in the functions of the city library (Continued on Page 12, Col. 2)

WILLIAM W. SCRANTON

Says 'No' On Future Politics

EDITOR'S NOTE — A week ago, Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania announced his permanent retirement from elective office. In this revealing interview, he details his reasons and sheds some fresh light on his fight for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964.

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton has slammed the door on active politics more tightly than any man since Sherman but not, he insists, because of any knife wounds in his back.

Many observers thought they detected an edge of bitterness in the absolute language used by the Pennsylvania governor last week: "I am not going to run ever again for any public office under any circumstances."

Denies Bitterness
But Scranton, in an interview with The Associated Press, denied any feeling of bitterness or sense of having been stabbed in the alley by fellow Republicans in 1964. That was the year, when after a spectacular comedy of (Continued on Page 12, Col. 3)

Say Part-Time Counsel for City Found Inadequate

Ulster County Bar Association President George A. Beck and the last four corporation counsels of the city testified at a Charter Revision Commission meeting Thursday night that the present provision for a part-time corporation counsel, without assistance, is inadequate to solve the legal problems of the city.

Present Corporation Counsel Vernon Murphy testified in support of a proposed charter provision establishing a law department in the city.

Along with Beck former corporation counsels Harry Beck and William A. Kelly testified that the city's corporation counsel needs help.

The commission also had a communication from former Corporation Counsel James J. Abernethy and corporation counsels of Poughkeepsie and Newburgh to the same effect.

Murphy submitted a proposed charter and brief designed to generate continuity of legal service by establishing a permanent office with at least one sec- (Continued on Page 12, Col. 5)

Many Left Homeless By Storm

Giant Twister Strikes Kansas

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The problems of caring for several thousand persons left homeless by a tornado which took 16 lives faced city officials today.

Most of those whose homes were lost or heavily damaged in the disaster put up temporarily with friends, relatives and strangers. Four Red Cross shelters were open in schools and the municipal auditorium.

About 70 persons were hospitalized with storm injuries, and at least 61 spent a second night in hospitals. Another 250 persons received outpatient treatment at hospitals.

Fifteen deaths occurred in Topeka — hardest hit of several towns struck by tornadoes in a brief span Wednesday night. One man was killed about 20 miles northeast of Topeka.

Many persons made offers of temporary housing for the homeless. The Salvation Army and Red Cross operated field kitchens around the city to feed the homeless, and rescue and repair personnel rushed in from other cities.

Grants Allotted To Area Day Care Centers by OEO

Day Care Centers operating in Southern Ulster County for children of agricultural workers will share in a $95,860 grant made by the Office of Economic Opportunity, antipoverty agency.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N. Y., announced the grant made to the State Department of Agriculture and Markets. He said an estimated 2,000 children will be cared for in 15 counties in New York State including Ulster County.

The program will be operated by the New York State Federation of Growers and Processors, Inc., and the Department of Agriculture and Markets. Other counties that will share in the $95,860 grant are Orange, Cayuga, Chenango, Erie, Genesee, Herkimer, Monroe, Montgomery, Orleans, Steuben, Suffolk, Wayne and Yates.

To Meet Wednesday
A meeting of leaders in the Southern Ulster program was held in Highland Wednesday afternoon, to discuss plans for the programs to be carried out at the Day Care Centers in the Towns of Lloyd and Marlborough for children of migrant agricultural workers.

Attending the session were, the Rev. Albert C. May Jr., of the Highland Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Arthur A. Hewitt, pastor of the Milton and Marlboro Methodist Churches and Mrs. Conley E. Gebbie of New Paltz.

The Rev. Mr. May said that a center will be conducted at the Marlboro School, where plans al- (Continued on Page 12, Col. 1)

SHEEP KILLED ON LOCAL FARM—All of 10 sheep kept on the former Beatty farm now owned by Lawrence A. Quilty, local insurance agent, were found dead earlier this week in a fenced-in area where they had bedded down during the night. The farm off Hurley Avenue is within city limits and local police and SPCA

Agent Arnold Adams are investigating. It is believed that the sheep were attacked by dogs, wild or possibly tame, and a check is being made in the surrounding area. Above Mr. Quilty shows head of one of the killed animals with two others near it. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

County Storm Damage Light, Over 2 Inches Rain Noted

By CHARLES M. MCCARTHY
Freeman Staff Writer

Ulster County apparently escaped the wrath of quick-hitting severe thunderstorms that battered most of New York State Thursday night and early today. There were no major incidents, communications and power utilities lines reported only scattered trouble and all roads were reported passable, although almost 2.5 inches of hailstone-swept rainfall belted the entire county. Elsewhere, scores of persons were injured, power was disrupted and damage to properties and facilities was estimated in the thousands of dollars.

It was the area's hardest-hitting storm of the season as the hailstones were followed by surges of wind-driven rain amid claps of thunder and flashes of lightning that lasted from about 10 Thursday night through before dawn today.

Lightning Strikes
At least one fire in the county was attributed to the storm when lightning struck a cabinet shop on Main Street in Rosendale. Damage, however, was minor.

Rosendale volunteers responded to the alarm at Ray Quick's Shop on Main Street at 10:46 p. m. Damage was confined to insulation in the structure.

Ulster was not spared the storm entirely. Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. reported loss of service to some 1,500-2,000 customers overnight in the West Hurley area, plus another approximately 500 customers in scattered areas from the southern part of the county and locations in the city and its immediate suburbs.

Joseph J. Benjamin, customer relations manager for the utility, told the Freeman that trouble started around 11:30 Thursday night and within two hours the company began receiving calls. He said that transformer trouble in the Hurley Avenue substation which feeds the Route 28 area to West Hurley and Morgan Hill caused power (Continued on Page 12, Col. 4)

Bring Murder Suspect Back to Face Charge

Facing a charge of first degree murder in the death of 2½-year-old Victor Rossiello at Lake Katrine in November, 1964, Raymond Rickard, 37, instrument technician formerly of Brooklyn, was returned to Ulster County late Thursday from Madras, India.

Rickard was brought back to the county in custody of Senior BCI Investigator Michael Lisman and Assistant District Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon. After being fingerprinted and photographed the accused man was committed to the Ulster County jail to await a court appearance.

In County Jail
The dead boy's mother, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Rossiello, 37, of 2022 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, has been confined to the county jail here for some time. She is held as a material witness in the alleged slaying of her son.

Rickard was taken into custody several weeks ago after he left a cargo ship which had docked at Madras, India. Rickard had worked as a seaman on the boat.

Esopus Adopts Amendments To Junkyard, Trailer Laws

Proposed amendments to the town's auto junkyard, trailer and peddler ordinances were adopted at the monthly meeting of the Esopus Town Board held Wednesday evening at Town Hall, Port Ewen.

The changes in the auto junkyard ordinance generally strengthens the ordinance and brings its provisions into line with the auto junkyard law enacted by the State Legislature at their 1965 session. The most significant change permits the town, after due notice and reasonable time for compliance, to remove junk vehicles from a non-complying property owner's property and to levy the cost against the property owner.

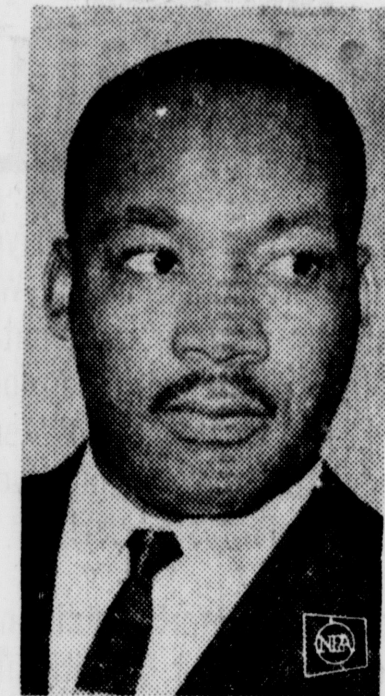

The changes to the trailer and peddler ordinances updates the ordinance and makes them more applicable to today's standards. A public hearing on the changes was held May 25 at which time the changes proposed were discussed in detail and an opportunity given to everyone desiring to speak for or against the changes. The adopted ordinance amendments are an outgrowth of a re- (Continued on Page 14, Col. 3)

FIRE DESTROYS ABEEL STREET SHED—A shed on the property of Reliance Marine Transportation & Construction Corp., 615 Abeel Street, was fully involved in flame when firemen arrived shortly before 9:30 Thursday night and two were injured fighting the blaze. The shed housed a commercial bandsaw unit. An adjacent building housing a compressor was scorched. A call at 9:24 p. m. was followed by an alarm from Box 3631, Abeel and Bernard Streets. Units from Central and Wiltwyck stations, the Wicks, Union, Rapid and Cordis companies responded with Chief James M. Brett and Deputy Chief

Glyn M. Southard in charge. As firemen fought the shed fire another was reported in rubbish and a tree stump at the rear of 635 Abeel Street. Firemen from the Cordis Company were dispatched there. Bernard A. Feecey, treasurer and manager of Reliance, today had no estimate of the extent of damage. Joseph Valle, of 484 Delaware Avenue, a Rapid Company volunteer, was treated at the Benedictine Hospital for a foot injury, and Fireman Russell Kahrs, of Central Station, suffered a knee injury. Dinner to Fete 10 Delegates Of Legion Boys' State June 21

The 10 Ulster County high school juniors, who will represent the various County American Legion posts, have been selected and will attend Empire Boys' State sessions June 26 to July 2 at the new State University of New York at Morrisville.

The campus is located on the Cherry Valley Turnpike approximately 40 miles from Utica in one direction and 40 miles from Syracuse to the west.

The young delegates, representatives of their sponsors, American Legion officials and guests will attend the annual testimonial dinner and reception for the 1966 delegation Tuesday, June 21 at 7 p. m. in Lloyd Post Home, Highland.

The facilities of the college are ideal for accomplishment of the aims of Boys' State. Morrisville is part of the great expanding University of New York and is particularly designed to train young men for responsible citizenship and to prepare them to fulfill the obligations of leadership and citizenship.

There will be 1057 boys in attendance at this year's "State" but with the growing facilities at the college, it is hoped there will be room for more in the next years.

Ulster County boys and their sponsoring Posts and Schools are as follows:

Jonathan C. Hoyt, Mt. Pleasant, Phoenicia Post 950, Ontario Central School.

Thomas N. Salzmann, 166 Wrentham Street, Kingston Post 150, Kingston High School.

Louis J. Ganci, Shokan, Olive Memorial Post 1627, Ontario Central School.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., June 10, 1966 — Twice in this century, France has been laid prostrate by German conquest. Both times — at tremendous cost in men and materials — the U. S. has been a mighty help in recapturing French soil from its despoilers and in restoring French sovereignty. Why then does President de Gaulle so distrust us? Why is he so intent upon pursuing what seems to be an anti-American campaign?

The Secession from NATO

In both World Wars 1 and 2, our efforts in behalf of France were veritable crusades, reflecting not only our horror of aggression but also our affection and our gratitude for the oldest of our nation's allies. Without French help there might well have been no successful end to the American Revolution. So it is that President de Gaulle's decision to have France withdraw from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to direct NATO officials to remove their military headquarters and bases from French soil not only surprises us, but hurts us deeply.

President de Gaulle is an ardent nationalist, a complex personality, a man of mystery. On the surface, it would appear that in his disenchantment with NATO he is obsessed with the idea of breaking up the whole alliance. Certain it is that NATO's operations will be severely crippled if France persists in her withdrawal... and especially if she should forbid NATO flights over her territory.

The Pilgrimage to Moscow

While de Gaulle's government and the 14 other powers belonging to NATO are busy jockeying for position as the withdrawal of NATO forces from France is arranged and accomplished, President de Gaulle himself will go to Russia. What he expects to accomplish there is not yet clear.

Of course, France and Russia do have two things in common: (1) A mutual mistrust of German power, and (2) a mutual interest in promoting Franco-Russian trade. Some observers claim that the de Gaulle visit to Moscow is in the nature of a pilgrimage, but many others find it hard to picture the French leader as a pilgrim seeking advice, or solace, or help. For all his isolationism, de Gaulle is not stupid. He knows very well that, in the larger sense and for the longer term, there can be no broad Franco-Russian accord. But de Gaulle is a realist, too, and he will be probing for the chinks in the Russian armor and for whatever opportunities there may be to strike a short-term bargain that will at least have good propaganda value.

What Price Glory?

By and large, Americans view de Gaulle's upcoming withdrawal from NATO as stemming from the man's stubbornness. Here in the States, the popular portrayal of de Gaulle is of a leader preoccupied by his own importance and by the grandeur of France. The glory of his nation's past is said to be ever present for him. His ambition to restore that glory ought not to be scorned. Would that America had more patriots of such caliber!

No matter how you view it, de Gaulle's decision to get out of NATO and to force the military arm of NATO out of France is a failure for U. S. diplomatic policy. It marks the beginning of a split in the Western alliance that makes the Communist world rejoice and that ought to make us uneasy.

America's Opportunity

The postwar establishment of NATO was a significant diplomatic achievement. It was the right move at the right time. Also, it was eminently right that the young NATO should be dominated by the powerful U. S., since most of its other members had been sorely ravaged by the war. But the years have passed, and Western Europe — aided in great measure by the security and the opportunity provided by NATO itself — has grown strong in manpower and in resources.

De Gaulle should not be criticized for having perceived the short-comings and the inequities of NATO and today's awakened and more sophisticated Western Europe. One day we may be glad he has now ruffled our feathers, for he has presented America with a challenge and an opportunity. NATO needs a new thrust, a new dimension, a more realistic power structure. What a chance this crisis provides for President Johnson who is so well versed in the arts of persuasion and of compromise!

Richard Henry Lee and Francis Lightfoot Lee of Virginia were the brothers who signed the Declaration of Independence.

Transistor Radios Big Hit To Armed Forces in Viet Nam

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — That steady rat-a-tat-tat you hear ain't no machine gun, buddy. That's an electric typewriter.

War has changed and you World War II and Korea guys wouldn't recognize it, much less be able to handle the new technical gear.

They're bringing out tons of stuff. Those electric typewriters grinding out five-play duplicates are just a start.

The old ways just aren't good enough for the rock-age GI.

Shaving from a dab of cold water in a battered helmet used to tax the courage of strong men.

No more. Just dig the cordless electric razor out of the combat pack and you're ready for inspection. Trapped on a long jungle patrol with no recharger handy? A good scrounger can usually find an Army generator somewhere.

In the old days soldiers and sailors wasted thousands of manhours in pursuit of what was known as the scuttlebutt or the hot dope.

Runs Up Aerial

This once respected craft has been dealt a blow by the transistor radio. Nowadays the guy just runs up his aerial and gets the ball game in Los Angeles. If he wants to know how the war is going he tunes in on Saigon or even Hanoi.

Of course, guys still chase around seeking "the word." But it's usually company-level stuff. The big word comes over the air waves.

There was a day when filling a cigarette lighter involved the process of stealing a little gasoline from some handy Jeep.

Today's fashionable infantryman carries a gas lighter despite the risk that a Viet Cong tracer might hit his refill bottle and set off a serious fire.

It's not unknown to see some of the better-equipped soldiers pull out a pocket tape-recorder to preserve the sound of battle for wife, girl friend or hometown buddies.

The camera has become almost standard equipment. You sometimes can't tell the soldiers from the tourists — everybody is busy taking pictures of everybody else.

One enterprising helicopter gunner mounted a movie camera with an electric attachment atop his machine gun. The vibration ruined all his film, but he's working on the problem.

All of this equipment coming over has placed a great burden on the Post Exchange facilities. They have had to sharply cut imports of hair spray to make room for priority items to keep this rocket-age operation rolling. Fingernail polish in the more popular red colors is now limited to one bottle per GI.

Japanese Newspapers

Four newspapers in Japan account for nearly half of the circulation of that country's approximately 100 daily papers. Mainichi, Shimbun, one of the largest, employs 5,000 persons, more than 1,000 of them on the editorial staff, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Palestine Learning Guerrilla Tactics

CAIRO (AP) — The Palestine liberation organization is sending some of its commandos to learn the Viet Cong's guerrilla tactics for use against Israel, Egypt's semiofficial Mideast News Agency reports.

Ahmed Shukairy, head of the organization, was quoted as saying the Palestinians would "stand by the side of the South Vietnamese liberation forces in their struggle against American imperialism."

He said the commandos would study guerrilla warfare from the Viet Cong "to apply it later in the inevitable war for the liberation of Palestine."

The Palestine liberation organization was created by the Arab heads of state in 1964 to organize and train former Palestinians for the "liberation of the homeland." It has received some propaganda and military support from Communist China recently, but it is considered largely under Egyptian control.

Wants Moscow Flights

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pan American World Airways says it has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for authority to fly from San Francisco to Moscow, via Tokyo.

Pan Am has for years been certified to fly from New York to Moscow, contingent upon a bilateral air agreement between the two countries. There has been a big increase in air service to Moscow by Western airlines in recent years. Japan and the U.S.S.R. recently signed an agreement on a trans-Siberian route.

Extra Bridge Sense Needed

By JACOB & SON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
A winning player must know how to bid and play but there is an extra requisite which is generally described as the "feel of the table."

The man with this characteristic almost never loses a two-way finesse. He just seems to know which opponent holds that missing card. On defense he finds the killing leads and plays. Most important of all, in competitive situations he knows when to sacrifice, and when to gamble that he can set his opponents.

There is nothing remarkable about North's pass to four hearts. Most players would know that they could not make five diamonds but would not bother to take the sure loss that would result from a five-diamond bid.

North passed for an entirely different reason. The game was rubber bridge and he felt certain that he would only go down two tricks at five diamonds doubled. This would merely be a 200-point loss because he held 100 honors, but North passed because he had some hope of beating the heart game. Why take any loss when you don't have to?

North started his campaign to beat four hearts by opening his singleton spade. West saw what North was planning and tried to counteract by playing the ace and another trump, but this did him no good. North went right up with his king and underled

'Reindeer Age'

Luncheon Given At Emma Wygant

A luncheon was given Thursday by the two teachers, and their classes, of the older children at Emma Wygant School for the Handicapped.

The teachers, Mrs. Mary Kent, who served as chief cook, and Mrs. Dorothy Hughes, who organized the program, were assisted by their classes, which did a wonderful work of serving as well as taking active part in the short program.

The luncheon, which honored the two students, who will be graduating this spring, namely Miss Dorothy Kleinman, and Miss Rosemary Gardecki, also was in appreciation to all those who have taken an active interest in the Emma Wygant School, this past school year, and aided in its program.

Representatives from every department of our school system were present, as well as those from the board of education, the Gateways Industries, and the Emma Wygant P-TA.

All expressed themselves as approving very much the program and work that is being accomplished for handicapped children at the Emma Wygant school. Many were amazed at their ability, especially at the way Frank De Filippo is learning to handle an accordion by ear.

The next big event to be held at Emma Wygant will be the graduation exercises to be held this coming June 21st, in the evening.

Dear Abby . . .

'Sweet Thing' May Change Her Tune

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 51-year-old man who is very much in love with a 22-year-old girl. I know you think I'm crazy, but Abby, this girl really loves me. She even broke up with a young good looking man just for me. She worked for me a short time, but we didn't want any talk around the place, so I had her quit. My problem is my wife. She won't give me a divorce.

Our children are grown, and I offered her a very good settlement, but she refused it. Abby, my girl friend is the sweetest, most unspoiled little thing in the world. She is just the opposite of my wife. She appreciates every little thing I've given her, like a small, inexpensive car, some clothes and taking care of her mother's hospital bill. I would gladly give up my last dime to be free to marry this girl. But how?

DEAR IN: Make your wife a better offer. She might surprise you. But I don't advise you to "give up your last dime" for your freedom because that "sweet, unspoiled little thing" might also surprise you.

DEAR ABBY: I'll get right to the point. I had several appointments with a reputable physician regarding a physical ailment. During one of these appointments I confided a very closely-guarded secret about my personal life. He assured me it would do no further.

This morning a friend told me she had heard something "unbelievable" about me. Then she recounted in the very words I had used to tell my doctor, exactly what I had told him. She didn't have to. She and my doctor's wife are very close friends.

I am sick inside. If this story gets out, it could wreck my marriage. My doctor told his wife, and of that I am positively certain. What would YOU do?

SICK INSIDE

DEAR SICK: Doctors are human and therefore have their frailties. But most doctors carry all their secrets to their graves. Clip this and send it to your doctor. It is part of the Hippocratic oath a doctor takes when he becomes a physician:

"Whatsoever in my practice, or not in my practice, I shall hear or see, amid the lives of men, which ought not to be noised abroad—as to this I will keep silence, holding such things unfitting to be spoken."

And sign your name! If he's innocent, he won't mind. And if he's guilty he'll be reminded.

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen a problem like mine in your column, and hope you can help me. My wife is a "she wolf." When we are out in public she is constantly looking at other men. It doesn't matter if we are at a restaurant, a ball game, or just walking down the street. You'd think her head was on a swivel. Then to top it off, she makes some remark about how "handsome" that one is, or what a nice "build" another one has. I am no slouch myself as far as looks go. Should I give her a taste of her own medicine? I'd like to put a stop to this.

DEAR HUSBAND: Skip the medicine. But tell your wife to keep her eyes front or some stranger will eventually call her bluff and you will be compelled to fight for her honor. And there's always a chance that you might lose.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, June 10, the 161st day of 1966. There are 204 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1692, the first of 20 persons was hanged as a witch in Salem, Mass. A sort of hysteria swept Salem during the rest of that summer and hundreds of people were accused and punished for allegedly practicing witchcraft.

On this date: In 1859, the Comstock Lode was discovered in Nevada. It produced a total yield in silver and gold of more than $340 million.

In 1940, the French government fled from Paris to Tours during World War II.

In 1945, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower received the Jeweled Order of Victory—Russia's highest award.

In 1947, President Harry S. Truman arrived in Ottawa. It was the first state visit to Canada by an American president.

Ten years ago—Republican congressional leaders said President Eisenhower would run for re-election. This came one day after Eisenhower underwent surgery at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington. He was suffering from inflammation of the lower section of the small intestine.

Five years ago—French-Algerian peace talks being held in France recessed on a note of pessimism in French quarters. But reliable Algerian sources said the situation wasn't as serious as was thought.

One year ago—Mass demonstrations, marches to City Hall and the school board began in Chicago to protest the pace of public school desegregation.

Selkirk Woman Backs Dirksen's Prayer Proposal

SELKIRK, N.Y. (AP)—A 40-year-old mother says she is not "knocking atheists" in her campaign to solicit support for Sen. Everett Dirksen's proposed amendment to permit prayer in schools on a voluntary basis.

Mrs. Donald Hotelling said Thursday that she and three friends had formed an informal committee to return prayer to the schools by soliciting "all the mail we can get" in support of the Republican senator's proposal.

Dirksen, of Illinois, is the sponsor of a measure that would permit local school boards to sanction prayers in school on a voluntary basis.

Mrs. Hotelling, who has three children who attend public school in this community south of Albany, added that, "it's hogwash to me that God should be taken out of such songs as 'God Bless America.'"

"And that is what the Supreme Court decision of 1963 is leading to," she added. "I am not knocking atheists but what about us who believe in God?"

Mrs. Hotelling said that the implications of the court ruling are that "patriotic songs" soon may be eliminated from the classroom. "I think they are of value and should be treasured and sung in schools," she said.

That historic decision three years ago established that the required recitation of the Lord's Prayer or verses from the Bible were in violation of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution.

Dirksen's proposal is in the form of a constitutional amendment.

Family Reunion

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A woman's four-year search for a family unaware of her existence has ended. Josephine Rendick, a waitress, has met for the first time her brother, Michael Muckick of New Brighton, and her sister, Ann Shrella of Sharpsville.

Mrs. Rendick asked help in finding her family after she was told she was an adopted child. The search began in February 1962.

Elmira Gazette Delayed by Storm

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — Fire caused by a lightning strike delayed the first morning edition of the Elmira-Star Gazette about an hour and 45 minutes today after power to the newspaper's plant was cut.

A spokesman said a minor fire erupted in a main transformer for the building. Partial power was restored two hours later, enabling a restart of production. Full power returned after five hours.

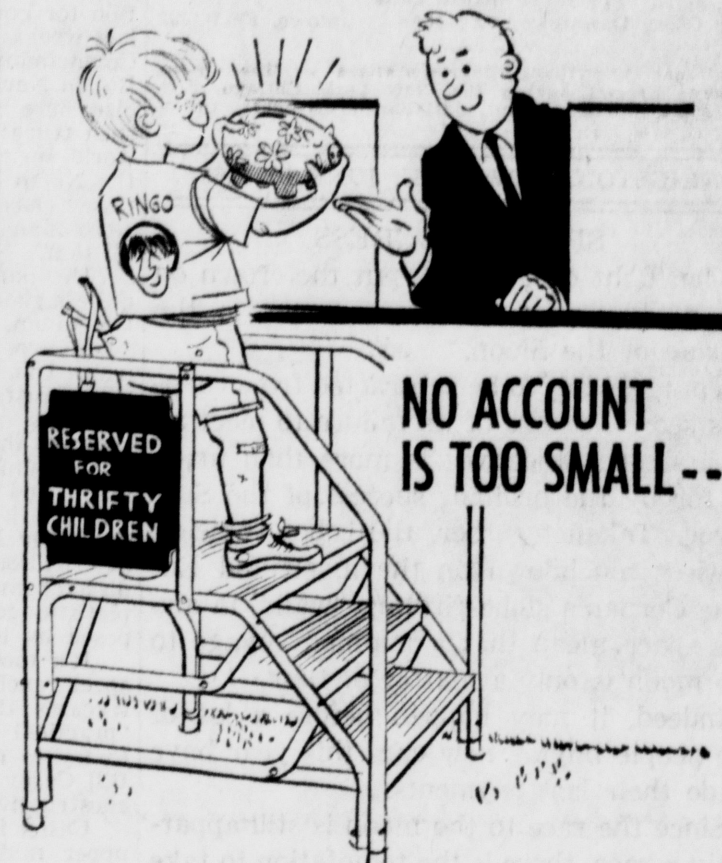

About fifty employees of the newspaper were forced to flee when smoke filled the building, but flames were confined to the transformer, which was replaced before the start of the initial press run.

The spokesman said the lost time would be made up during press runs for the second and third editions, with the final morning editions expected to be back on schedule.

Killed by Crane

WARSAW, N.Y. (AP) — Floyd C. Neely, 59, of Warsaw, was killed Thursday when the crane he was operating overturned and he was crushed beneath it.

Police said Neely was using the crane to pick up a 40-foot tower once used to test elevators at the Turnbull Elevator Co. The tower was being dismantled. Neely lived at 16 South Ave.

SPACE PROGRESS

The flight of Gemini 9 put the crown on one of the most important weeks in the Decade of the Moon.

Whatever has to be subtracted from Gemini's score because of its failure to meet all its assigned objectives is more than made up for by the brilliant success of the Surveyor. Taken together, the robot vehicle's flawless touchdown on the moon and Eugene Cernan's globe-girdling "walk" in airless space mean that a manned voyage to the moon is only a matter of time.

Indeed, it may happen before a lot of the people buying new cars this year have made their last payments.

Since the race to the moon is still apparently a race, there is the temptation to take a partisan attitude toward each new feat.

Regarding Surveyor, the Soviets quickly reminded everyone that they were the first to land an instrument package on the moon. The Russian press was more concerned with explaining how Luna 9 had made Surveyor's job easier than it was in giving its readers the full details on the American craft.

Our side countered that Luna was not a true soft-landing vehicle but a crashproof capsule that had been ejected just before its carrier smashed into the moon. Surveyor took more and better pictures as well.

Some have pointed out that if the Russians have usually been "fustest with the mostest," we have pretty regularly been "nextest with the bestest."

Well, all this is certainly better than arguing over who can kill the most people with the fewest nuclear bombs. Perhaps competition in the exploration of space may actually turn out to be the moral equivalent for war that so many thinkers have long sought.

But somewhere along the way between here and the oceans of the moon, it is to be hoped that men will begin to realize that regardless of which nation gets there first, the accomplishment itself, and every contributing accomplishment from Sputnik I to Surveyor, properly belong to all mankind and are part of the common history of human endeavor on—or off—this little planet.

This country's first national draft law was passed 103 years ago—which is a long time to go without amendments that really knock out the draft's inequities.

MEASLES IS WANING

Thanks to the measles vaccine introduced three years ago, this disease is well on the way to being eliminated in the United States. Although some 12 million of the nation's children have not yet been vaccinated, Public Health Service officials predict that measles will be virtually a thing of the past in most parts of the country within a year or so.

This prediction is not as over-optimistic as it may seem. About 12 million American children already have been vaccinated. Public health experts believe that if another two to four million in strategic areas receive the vaccine, measles will be nearly eradicated. The strategic places are low-income urban areas, and rural areas where few children have been immunized.

The rationale behind this is that, even without 100 per cent immunization, the disease will not spread much if most of the susceptibles have gotten the vaccine. By the same token, smallpox epidemics are a thing of the past although we have never achieved 100 per cent immunization against this disease.

The importance of continuing the vaccination program vigorously can be seen when one considers that about 266,000 cases of measles were reported in the United States last year. This is only about half the number reported in 1955, an average pre-vaccine year, and not much more than a third the number reported in 1958, but it is still far too many. Concern is

"These Days"

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

FEUDS AND GOOD IDEAS DON'T MIX

At two ends of New York State the forthcoming Republican primaries will give voters the opportunity to speak on the question of whether willingness to support the Goldwater national ticket in 1964 must forever ruin a man's chances to remain in politics, eastern style. In the Buffalo area of western New York, John Pillion, a Goldwater delegate at San Francisco, is fighting to win primary endorsement for his old lost seat in Congress. And in the swank North Shore Third Congressional District of Long Island, former Congressman Steve Derounian, another Goldwater supporter, is trying to fend off a June 28 primary challenge from a capable New York lawyer named William J. Casey.

The Derounian-Casey embroilment is peculiarly interesting because it illustrates in microcosm the terrible vulnerability of the Republican Party in the Northeast. In California it was entirely possible for two aspirants to the Republican nomination for governor to obey, at least until the very last weeks of the campaign, a so-called "Eleventh Commandment" not to attack other Republicans. But in New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, and elsewhere in the Northeast there has been no such truce; party cannibalism in this part of the world seems to be a prescribed rite. And so, on the North Shore of Long Island, Republican Bill Casey has been lambasting Republican Steve Derounian as a troglodyte, an anachronism, and all that.

The odd thing about it is that Bill Casey is quite a good conservative himself. Moreover, Steve Derounian, although he was for Goldwater two years ago, was actually more of a Dick Nixon man. And, both in 1964 and in 1966, Derounian, who insists that he is a Republican first and last, has consistently refused to accept the embrace of the New York Conservative Party.

Derounian has been writhing under Casey's attack and also doing a little feuding with the New York Conservatives at the same time. It doesn't make much sense. Nor does Casey's characterization of Derounian as a backward-looking disaster mean anything in particular save as a pathetic concession to demands supposedly imposed by the necessities of campaign oratory.

It's too bad that grown men who should respect each other get led into the unseemly fracas that grow out of the requirements of "practical politics." For Derounian has a right to try to reclaim his old Congressional seat, and Bill Casey has an equal right to put some of his constructive ideas before the electorate.

Casey is campaigning in a rich district where upper middle class incomes predominate. He is a free enterpriser from away back. One of the points in his platform is a proposal to broaden the base of American stock ownership. "We are not creating new owners fast enough," he says. During the past fourteen years the number of families in America with annual incomes over $10,000 has increased from 1.3 million to 10.8 million—an eightfold gain. Yet the number of shareholders in American business has had only a threefold increase in the same time. Something is rotten here.

Bill Casey, who can afford to assume there is a good deal of financial sophistication in his district, makes speeches objecting that our tax laws work to make the issuing of common stock an inferior method of financing new capital construction. As he says, it costs an industrialist only three per cent after taxes to finance new investment through bond issues (on which the interest is deductible) whereas it normally takes six per cent after taxes to pay a dividend on a stock issue. So there isn't much new stock being issued, and stock ownership in America does not expand as it should.

Bill Casey wants to see the laws changed to make widespread stock ownership attractive. When he outlines proposals to spread profit-sharing plans, or to finance stock purchases as we now finance the purchase of automobiles or dishwashers or homes, he is the reverse of demagogue. But such manifestly good ideas, when they come from Republicans of the Northeast, tend to get all mixed up with the feuds dating back to 1964—and in such an atmosphere nothing good can hope to survive in November. The Republican enmities of June lead to Democratic majorities on election day.

Cysts Can Be a Nuisance But Rarely Cause Trouble

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Two years ago I developed a lump on my thigh. After a few months some pus came out and the lump disappeared but later it came back again. Could this be a malignant growth? What is the best treatment?

A—From your description I would suspect that you have a benign cyst of some kind. These often become infected, discharge their contents and then fill up again. If you can protect your cyst from injury and infection it should not give you any trouble. If it becomes a nuisance it should be removed.

Q—My husband has had four wens removed. What causes them? Are they malignant?

A—A wen or sebaceous cyst is not malignant. It is caused by an obstruction of one of the oil glands in the skin but what causes the obstruction is not known.

Q—Could palpitation, nervousness, stiff joints, soreness of the breasts, spells of chilliness, a burning of the soles of the feet, tingling of the hands and a coated tongue be menopausal symptoms?

A—Palpitation and nervousness are usually due to emotional causes. If you are overly worried about the menopause, that could aggravate these symptoms. Stiffness of the joints may follow bursts of unaccustomed exercise or, like the menopause, the stiffness may be a natural consequence of aging. Keeping yourself physically fit is one way to minimize this symptom.

Soreness of the breasts might well be due to hormones taken to alleviate menopausal symptoms. The dosage of such hormones requires careful adjustment. Chilliness is not a menopausal symptom but may be caused by a thyroid deficiency or forgetting to close the window. Burning of the soles of the feet may be due to being on your feet for longer periods than you have been used to, excessive smoking, obesity or aging.

Tingling in the hands may be due to anemia. Coated tongue is due to not eating enough food that requires chewing, such as toast or raw carrots. The menopause certainly gets blamed for just about everything these days!

Q—What is meant by the following: diabetes mellitus, cholecystitis with calculi and cholecystectomy?

A—Diabetes mellitus is sugar diabetes which is much more common than diabetes insipidus in which there is no sugar in the urine.

Cholecystitis is an inflammation of the gall bladder and calculi are stones—in this case, gallstones.

Cholecystectomy is an operation in which the gall bladder is removed.

heightened by indications that the reported cases represent only a small percentage of the actual total.

Measles is no trifling matter, as was once commonly thought. It may lead to a variety of serious conditions, including pneumonia and encephalitis. Thus it is first-rate health news that this disease is rapidly being brought under control.

"Go Away, Boy, You Bother Me!"

Washington News

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is becoming commonplace in this capital that even men who are comfortable with big government are worried about it.

Actually, this concern is not new. It showed itself in the Kennedy administration, when special juvenile delinquency projects were designed to magnify local control and downplay Washington.

In many aspects, the poverty program consciously follows this example.

One can hardly attend a major conference these days without hearing new stress put on the need for stronger action at the state and local level. The theme rang through many speeches and comments in the two-day White House parley on civil rights.

Even those friendliest to a big federal establishment see a limit to what Washington can manage successfully. The view is growing that state and, especially, local participation is absolutely demanded if various health, welfare and civil rights programs are to be genuinely effective.

THERE CAN BE NO COMPLAINT that state and local governments are not expanding. Since World War II their combined expenditures have risen from $20 billion annually to around $90 billion. Experts predict that their outlay may catch up with federal spending (defense included) in the early 1970s.

The relative gain in state-local outlays exceeds federal growth by a fair margin in the last two decades. If defense expenditures be left out of calculation, the state-local jump is much greater.

There is, however, a sticker in all this. The population specialists say that in the decades just ahead Americans will move about from place to place even more often than they do now. Figures show that one in every five currently moves each year.

Politicians, already fretful over the constant shifts in the make-up of local constituencies, are wondering how any kind of stable electorate can be built at that level. Mobility in the job field is sending people not merely to different neighborhoods, but from Seattle to Dallas to Kansas City to Baltimore and points beyond.

Party professionals agree that with such major mobility accelerated, not too many Americans can be expected to feel intense attachment to particular places. Their "home areas" may be as numerous as those of career servicemen.

THE QUESTION THAT FOLLOWS IS: "How can such a floating citizenry be counted upon to take active interest in local problems when they will be

Reciprocal Action May Not Be Accorded to Rhodesians

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — "Reciprocal action" is a favorite phrase nowadays in diplomacy. But evidently the United States Government, which gave its blessings to a trip by Senator Robert E. Kennedy to South Africa to lecture the people there on their domestic affairs, is unwilling to allow anyone from the Rhodesian government to come to this country to present the case of the Rhodesian people.

This impression is derived from a letter written by the principal private secretary of the Prime Minister of Rhodesia. It was addressed to Thomas J. Anderson, president and editor-in-chief of the "Georgia Farmer," published in Atlanta. The letter reads as follows:

Writes on Lecture
"Office of the Prime Minister, Salisbury, Rhodesia, 17th of February, 1966.

"Dear Mr. Anderson:
"At the direction of the Prime Minister I write further to my telegram of the 29th January to advise you of the present position regarding the proposed lecture tour of the United States by a Rhodesian Cabinet Minister.

"Following an instruction by the Prime Minister, the ministry of external affairs enquired from Mr. Gebelt, the United States consul in Salisbury, if his government would permit such a tour, and the reply now received indicates that the United States government would be averse to such a tour either by a cabinet minister or any person representing the Rhodesian government.

"In the circumstances, perhaps you would now like to make representations regarding this ruling through your own channels to the White House because it does appear that someone along the line is afraid of the full details of Rhodesia's case being put frankly before the American public.

"If, however, you are unsuccessful in this regard, the Prime Minister is prepared to consider sending someone unconnected with the Rhodesian government to the states for this tour."

Letter Published
Mr. Anderson did not take the matter up with the Government here, but published the letter in his magazine and made some comments on it. He had recently returned from a trip to Rhodesia. As a result, he wrote:

"When the blacks of South Africa are brought to the point at which they are capable of self-government, the nation may be sub-divided, blacks and whites in separate nations. However, the blacks in Rhodesia and South Africa, even more than more civilized blacks in the west, are really incapable of stable, prosperous, strong and intelligent self-government.

"Will the Rhodesian whites therefore continue to pump their money and brains into the country for only a few more years and then turn it over to the blacks? I think not. I predict that if the Rhodesian secession from Britain is ultimately successful—and I believe it will be—Rhodesia will change its constitution and adopt an 'apartheid' policy similar to that of South Africa. Otherwise, the blacks would take over Rhodesia in a few years, amid Congo-style chaos."

"With practically no outside financial help, Rhodesia's ratio of children in school in relation to total population is remarkable. In Rhodesia one out of every six people is in school. In the last established black governments of Liberia and Ethiopia, the ratio is one in 40 and one in 108, respectively. In Britain it is one in five. In Rhodesia there is one hospital bed for every 250 blacks. In Liberia and Ethiopia it is one for every 3,500 and 4,000 respectively."

Rhodesians Disappointed
The Rhodesians are disappointed by the fact that no minister or prominent member of their legislative body—corresponding to Senator Kennedy—is allowed to come to the United States to talk to the people here or otherwise to get their case before the American public.

Even the Secretary-General of the United Nations refused to permit the minister of justice of the Rhodesian government to appear before the Security Council to present its case when the resolution proposing an economic boycott of Rhodesia was recently being discussed. So there seems to be little "reciprocal action" insofar as it concerns the right of members of the Rhodesian government to give their side of the controversy or to express themselves freely to the American people through a lecture tour such as Bobby Kennedy has just completed in South Africa.

Quick Quiz

Q—Why does the North Star not rise and set?

A—It is directly over the axis of the earth, so the rotation of the earth does not affect the position of the star as it is seen from the earth.

Q—What is the minimum age requirement for members of the U. S. Congress?

A—A member of the House of Representatives must have attained the age of 25; a senator must have attained the age of 30 years.

Kelly and I have been his guests at the White House. Soon, we leave with the First Family on Air Force One for a flight to the Texas ranch.

If you think I have gone so far as to add that the process of moving from one area to another may so enlarge the mobile American's experience with the grasp of local affairs that in time he may become a far more alert and astute participant than he is today.

This has the ring of idealistic fancy. But if there is not at least some soundness in it, then the worriers over big government in Washington are going to have a great deal more to frown about for the rest of this century.

I asked Vice Admiral George Burley, the President's physician, about the President's health. "He sank down in his chair. 'It couldn't be better,' he said. 'I know what you're going to say. He has speed and stamina and he never stops working, but I examine him twice a week and when I say to a man of 57 who passes all the tests and comes up with a blood pressure of 120 over 70?"

Nothing. We made a trip down the Potomac on the Presidential yacht and he played with Miss Courtney Valenti, 2, for awhile. He begged for kisses, hugs and grunts, and she gave them. She has big dark eyes and jet ringlets and he roared: "Who do you love?" She said: "The Prez." He said: "Poor Prez. He needs another kiss, a hug, and a grunt." She said no. So, when she wasn't looking, he hid her doll Lisa.

She got it back for a kiss, a hug and a grunt but he complained about the quality of the grunt. When she went off with her mother, Mrs. Jack Valenti, the President sat back on his spine, pulled a blue necktie over his eyes, and dozed. At will, he can start himself, or stop himself.

He looks stern and turns out to be a sentimental soft touch. He got a promotion for Dr. Burley. When it didn't come through at once, he phoned Cyrus Vance at the Pentagon and asked for it "Now." That was 5 p. m. At 7, the promotion was in his desk. When Paul Glynn, his Air Force sergeant, returned to duty at Andrews AFB, the president of the United States phoned and said: "Would you like to come back and work for me? I need you now more than ever." The sergeant is back on duty outside the President's bedroom.

One of Joseph Califano's children swallowed a lot of aspirin a long time ago. It was a hospital case. A year later, when a medical bill went to Congress, the President said: "Put a provision in there that there must be safety tops on medical bottles so children can't get hurt."

One more day with this man and I may send what is left of my soul to the Smithsonian. . . Copyright, 1966, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Ap Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Raising the national debt limit has become a June rite in Congress. This year the only doubt about it is whether the ceiling will be boosted by $2 billion or $4 billion.

Congress already has approved the projects and voted the appropriations that will call for today's federal debt to rise—as it has been doing year after year.

The U.S. Treasury says it needs a $332-billion limit to give it elbow room to maneuver and be sure of paying its bills. The House says $330 billion is enough. The Senate will discuss the question next week.

Expect Bigger Debt

It has to be decided by June 30 or the ceiling drops to its permanent $285-billion limit set in 1959. And as of today the Treasury already owes $322.4 billion and expects to have a debt of around $329 billion by next March.

Congress has raised the ceiling progressively in 12 steps since it last set the permanent one in 1959. Each time the temporary level is good for a year or less.

Why the ceiling at all? Is the steadily climbing debt, with interest charges on it now around $13 billion a year, dangerously high?

Congress considers the ceiling to be a restraint on government spending—although Congress itself has to authorize the programs and appropriate the money for that spending. And as government spending tops tax receipts in most years, the debt goes up steadily.

As the towering height of the federal debt, many economists—especially those in the federal government—point to the even faster increase in the nation's economy. They contend that the debt is still well within the ability of the nation to carry without hardship or danger.

But while the debt mounts, the nation's Gross National Product has been staging an impressive climb. In 1930 this measure of all the goods and services produced in the nation was only $91 billion. In 1959 when the last permanent debt limit was set the GNP was $483 billion. Today the GNP is running at a $725-billion annual rate.

Assets Have Climbed

And the nation's assets have climbed far above the trillion-dollar mark.

That's what makes the U.S. Treasury's debt safe. And although taxpayers may grumble at having to put up $13 billion a year for interest on this national debt, few have any fear that the huge economy can't sustain it.

Hurt on Thruway

While operating his motorcycle on the State Thruway near mile post 82, Town of Rosendale, shortly before 5 p. m. Thursday, Douglas M. Reisner, 26, of 748 East 9th Street, New York City, lost control and the motorcycle upset. State police said Reisner was taken to Kingston Hospital. He was treated for lacerations of the right shoulder and head and a sprained arm. He was released after treatment in the emergency room, according to Trooper J. B. Fox of the Thruway detail.

Buy 2 Voting Machines

Town of Ulster Notes Election Districts Added

An increase in the number of voting districts in the Town of Ulster from seven to nine has made necessary the purchase of two additional voting machines for use at the polls.

At the June meeting of the Town Board on Wednesday the board accepted a bid of $1,726 each for two machines which will be equipped with an automatic return system to automatically register the vote total. The bid of the Automatic Voting Machine Division of Jamestown, was accepted.

Change Meet Night

The Board also voted to change the meeting night to the first Thursday of each month. In the past the meetings have been held on the second Wednesday of the month, the day preceding the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Supervisors. This has made it difficult to refer any resolutions or matters to the Board of Supervisors because of lack of time to prepare such matters and present them the following night to the Board.

Ten college students will be allotted to the Town of Ulster under the State Division of Youth program to assist in the development of the new Town of Ulster park property which the town acquired three years ago. These students will work during July and August in the development of the park and in a beautification program on the premises.

Bids for construction of a water storage tank for the expanded Ulster Water District will be solicited. The bids will be opened at 7:30 p. m. at Lake Katrine Grange Hall on Wednesday, July 13.

Plans for an additional storage tank for the water district call for erection of a tank in the northerly end of the township off Route 9W.

To Review Sewer Study

The board also set June 27, at 7:30 p. m. for a meeting of the board with the engineering firm of J. Kenneth Frazer, at which time plans for a sewage system will be reviewed and discussed. Later it is planned to hold open meetings for the public at which time the comprehensive plan will be presented to the residents of the town and costs, assessments and other information pertinent to the project will be discussed. The date for such open meetings will be announced later.

A bid of $288 was high for sale of a 1942 Walters truck owned by the town. High bidder was Michael Benavito of the Barclay Heights Service Center. The bid was accepted by the board.

Violation of town dump regulations by the New York State Thruway was discussed. The town clerk was authorized to notify the Thruway Authority that use of property off the Thruway in the Town of Ulster for dumping purposes was a violation of the town ordinance. The Authority will be requested to rectify the condition.

A public hearing was set for July 7 at 7:30 p. m. prior to the meeting of the Town Board, to discuss repeal of the existing junkyard ordinance. The town would then use the state ordinance. The town attorney will draw up a new junkyard ordinance which will be presented to the public at a later date.

Authorization was granted the Town Superintendent of Highways and the Town Clerk to attend a training conference at Cornell July 11, 12, 13. The conference is sponsored by the New York State Association of Towns.

Methodist Church Rejects Proposed 'Crusade' Program

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A $1.6 million "crusade" program for the Western New York conference of The Methodist Church has been rejected by delegates to the conference annual meeting.

The controversial measure was defeated Thursday, 139-125, after long and lively debate. A trimmed, substitute measure which would have cost $500,000 also was turned down.

"This does not diminish the needs nor the problems we face in western New York," said Bishop W. Ralph Ward of Syracuse, who presided. "I trust these needs will be duly considered again when the proper time comes."

"The work of the church in western New York has been set back by at least a decade," declared the Rev. Dr. Clytus F. Mowry of Christ Church, Amherst, chairman of the special committee that drew up the proposal.

Recommends Disapproval
Another group, conference World Service and Finance Commission, in a preliminary report, had recommended disapproval of the program.

The proposal included $300,000 for a loan fund for local church renovation on buildings; $200,000 for student religious centers in churches near college campuses; $200,000 in grants for new churches; $75,000 for experiments in new kinds of urban and rural ministry and $100,000 for loans and scholarships for students preparing for the ministry or other full time church-related vocations.

It also called for $300,000 to be spent for improvements to Camp Asbury in Silver Lake near Perry, including replacing of Epworth Inn, a church building there.

The finance unit said the church budget has increased 60 per cent since 1960 and warned that the churches had not met all the increases.

It was estimated beforehand that to succeed, the three-year program would have required additional support of $10 per conference family per year.

Earlier the conference Board of Christian Social Concern recommended that the United States find immediate ways to disengage itself from an "intolerable situation" in South Viet Nam.

The report was released Thursday, but, because of the lengthy debate over the crusade program was not expected to be presented formally until today.

It is expected to be used by the delegates to determine what course they favor in Viet Nam.

The five-day session in Wesley Church here, attended by representatives of 294 churches, ends Sunday.

Times-Union Head Gives Sweden Talk

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Gene Robb, publisher of the Albany, N.Y., Times-Union and Knickerbocker News, outlined the role of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association in a speech Thursday to publishers from throughout the world.

Robb, a former president of the American association, gave the final address at the three-day congress of the International Federation of Newspaper Publishers.

He told the publishers that the ANPA had cited the Johannesburg, South Africa, Rand-Daily Mail for its courage and balance under difficult conditions.

Robb now serves on the ANPA's board of directors.

Javits Wants Medicare Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., says he will sponsor legislation to amend the federal Medicare law under which New York State enacted its controversial plan to aid the medically needy.

The Republican legislator said Thursday that next week he would introduce amendments to:

—Provide a deductible feature on hospital bills.

—Permit states to vary the income eligibility standards on the basis of health costs in various regions.

—Permit states more latitude in determining the benefits available to different age groups. These amendments, Javits predicted, would receive substantial support in Congress.

In another development, the Citizens Committee for Responsible Government began court action in Syracuse to prevent the use of public funds to implement the program.

At the committee's request, State Supreme Court Justice John H. Farnham ordered George K. Wyman, state welfare commissioner, and Hugh R. Jones, chairman of the State Board of Social Welfare to show cause why they should not be enjoined from spending state funds in the program pending a review of the criteria established for eligibility.

The order is returnable in Albany June 15.

Critics of the New York State plan have hit hardest at the income eligibility limit which, they say, is too high. Generally, a family of four with a net income of $6,000 is eligible. The state also has added certain restrictions regarding savings and insurance.

The state's program currently is under study by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The plan has been a controversial topic since it took effect May 9.

We Reserve Right to Limit Quantities

DO YOU REMEMBER

By Sophie Miller

Now that the Daylines do not stop at Kingston Point, and we can only see the Hudson from a distance, there is a great interest in the Hudson River. All these two, three and five year plans or whatever they call them to improve this location or that section is for somebody else, not for us. Who are they expecting?

I remember when North Front Street was widened, now they speak of widening downtown Broadway some four feet. Maybe they will have a race track here someday. I remember the Poughkeepsie boat races on the Hudson, that brought people from all over to our river. Will widening the river or making it deeper bring the races back to the Hudson? A boat ride on the many decked Day Lines was so taken for granted by many of us. The convenience and pleasure of those boats cannot be explained to the younger generation who never rode on them. For instance, the over all length of the Washington Irving was 414 feet, and it beam or width was 86 feet, which gave room for those wishing to walk, or promenade up and down the wide staircases.

I received an item from Mr. Newgold who has the interesting Colony Arts Center in Woodstock, and during the July 1 weekend will have the usual show of local items. This year he writes me the theme will be The Hudson River and the Country Around. He hopes to have old maps of both sides of the Hudson, covering every mile from New York to Albany. There will be old prints in color and black and white, and various souvenirs saved from historic hotels, like the Catskill Mountain House, the Kaaterskill and Overlook Mountain House. He also intends to show pictures of old ferry and steamboats taken in the 1890's. Last year he gave everyone attending the show a fine large print of the famous Mary Powell, the "Queen of the Hudson." This year a Bartlett print will be given.

One of my readers sent me The Lamp, summer 1966 issue of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and New York. There is a large colorful reproduction of a painting by S. A. Hudson of the Hudson showing a side-wheeler and sailing vessels, and men in high hats of the last century. The article is by Carl Carmer the noted historian of our Hudson River. He tells how some 30 years ago he was commissioned by a publisher to write a book about the Hudson. For three years he traveled up and down the Hudson, talking to oldtimers, and visiting libraries to find out all he could about the Great River of the Mountains, as Henry Hudson called it.

He tells about the Rockefeller family restoring Sunnyside, the many-angled residence of Washington Irving. It seems that Irving added to his house on the Hudson with ideas he brought from Holland, Scotland, China and Spain, and somehow together with the original old Dutch house it started out to be it became known as the "snuggery" a charming place to live in. Carmer tells how the Rhine was compared to the Hudson, only the Rhine had castles, so the rich American families of Manhattan decided they would build their own castles on the Hudson. Lyndhurst, a "Hudson River Gothic" castle was built by architect Alexander Jackson Davis, about 1840 for wealthy merchant, Phillip Paulding. Jay Gould bought it later and his daughter, Anna lived there. Her heirs presented Lyndhurst to the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

Carmer speaks of the mined products along the Hudson, garnets that are taken from the side of Gore Mountain in the Adirondacks. The Barton Mines produce the hard garnet used in making of sandpaper, and grinding of optical lenses. "The road from the river to the summit of its high mountain bank still offers a motorist a garnet-covered passage." He explains further how the Hudson is a great commercial river today, little of which we know about in Kingston.

Blind Princess Sees Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 90-year-old Russian princess, who was born in the White House and has been blind for 10 years, can see again.

She is Princess Cantacuzene, who was born Julia Grant, grand-daughter of President Ulysses S. Grant.

She has lived alone in a Washington apartment for the past 10 dark years. She had no hope of ever seeing again.

Two weeks ago, the retina dropped in one eye, enabling her to see again. Doctors said they could not explain why her sight had suddenly returned in this way.

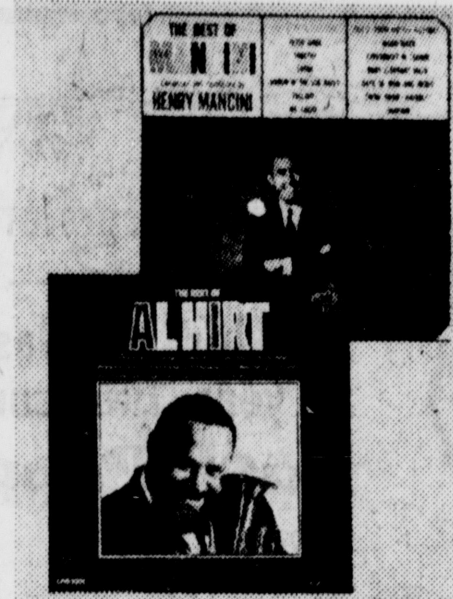

"I can't read," says Princess Cantacuzene, widow of a Russian prince, "I see color. I see people, but things are a little blurred. You can't imagine what it's like, to see again."

Scout Leaders Want New Image

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — A committee of Boy Scout leaders urged the organization Thursday to scrap its short pants, drop the word boy from its name and take an interest in girls.

The committee's report, delivered after two and a half years of study, recommended a revolutionary streamlining of the worldwide organization founded in Britain by Lord Baden-Powell in 1908.

The 24 committee members — all of them under 45 — said in their report that the scouts need a new image.

Shorts, the report said, "are one of the most damaging aspects of our present public image. They are responsible for the scout movement being dubbed as a juvenile organization in which men drop back to boyhood level."

They recommended mushroom-colored trousers, slightly tapered with no cuffs.

Should Wear Berets
The streamliners said scouts should wear berets instead of the old-fashioned army hats, and that the berets and shirts should be green.

They also recommended: Scouting activities should be kept to a minimum and "outmoded activities and childish games" should be abolished.

Senior and Rover Scouts should be called "Venture Scouts," a name which is "virile, active and forward looking."

Boy Scouts should be called Scouts.

"Venture Scouts between the ages of 16 and 20 should be meeting girls," the report declared. It recommended a joint committee representing Venture

Capitol Has New Pet Phrase, Building Bridges to China

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's administration has a pet phrase now, being worked for all its worth, on improving relations with the Chinese Communists. It calls for "building bridges" to Red China.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey used it this week in addressing West Point's graduating class. And Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara used it last month. The Red Chinese brushed it off.

Same Status

This leaves the relationship between the two countries where it was 16 years ago this month.

In December, 1949, the Red Chinese drove Chiang Kai-shek and his Nationalist Chinese from the mainland to Formosa.

The United States, which had pumped billions of aid to Chiang, had given up on him, washed its hands.

On Jan. 5, 1950 President Harry S. Truman said that whatever happened between Chiang and the Reds was their business and the United States would not defend Formosa. June 25 the Korean War began.

And on June 27 Truman to protect the American flank in the Pacific, reversed himself and decided to defend Formosa. The United States has been stuck with that assignment ever since.

Is Unyielding

And in all the intervening years, or ever since Red China swept into the Korean War late in 1949, the most powerful nation on earth and the most populated one have been unyielding antagonists, sometimes looking ludicrous.

Although the United States never has recognized the Red regime as the legitimate government of China, ever since 1954, U.S. and Chinese representatives have been meeting in Geneva and Warsaw but hardly hearing each other.

Sen. George D. Aiken, Vermont Republican, put the proper twist on this bit of irony: "How are you going to recognize Red China when Red China won't recognize us?"

The United States won't trade with Red China, has tried to discourage allies from doing so, and down through the years always has blocked any effort to give Red China a seat in the United Nations.

King of Mainland

Red China, claiming to be lord of the mainland and Formosa, insists Chiang's Formosa has no right to a U.N. seat, which it has, and the United States, stuck with Formosa, must insist it can't be thrown out.

Lately the Johnson Administration, because of the danger of war with the Chinese over the war in Viet Nam, has been under pressure to be less rigid toward the Chinese Communists who have been just as rigid in return.

This explains the phrase the administration has been spreading about the need to "build bridges." But the Chinese call this a fraud and point to a statement by Secretary of State Dean Rusk last March.

He laid down a 10-point policy for dealing with Red China, including such points as these: The United States will help nations which seek its help against Chinese aggression; will stay loyal to Formosa; will continue to try to keep the United Nations from expelling Formosa.

Asks Containment

Humphrey added to the policy by calling for "containment" of Red China "without isolation." The Red Chinese call it a hoax, arguing that "containment" is the real U.S. policy and "without isolation" is false.

The United States made a few ice-breaking gestures of no great importance, like letting Chinese scholars and scientists come here, but China said no.

The Johnson Administration has been rather vague on how to build the bridges. Humphrey in his talk never said how and McNamara suggested maybe balanced trade, diplomatic contacts, and exchange of military observers.

Most of Japan's export sales of two-wheeled motorcycles go to the United States and Great Britain.

Seeger, Ready To Entertain, But Is Rejected

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Folk singer Pete Seeger is "ready, willing and able" to perform a concert in a high school on Long Island but the community's school board is not so sure it's willing to listen.

A dispute between the promoters of the controversial balladier's performance and the East Meadow School Board was heard Thursday before the Court of Appeals, which took no action.

An attorney for the East Meadow Community Concert Association told the court that Seeger was "ready, willing and able" to perform despite his rejection by the school board.

The board canceled Seeger's scheduled performance in the high school auditorium there last March on the ground his show could cause a situation whereby "school facilities and the educational climate of the district could be adversely affected."

Norman Bard, attorney for the concert association, said Thursday that "there was no proof of clear and present danger" in Seeger's scheduled appearance. Bard argued that the board primarily was concerned with Seeger's controversial life.

Board's Privilege
John H. Borrie, the board's attorney, argued that the board had the privilege to cancel any performance that might result in damage to school property or to the educational process.

The 47-year-old folk singer often is identified with liberal causes. At the time his performance was cancelled, he had just returned from a tour of the Soviet Union, where he allegedly sang songs critical of the war in Viet Nam.

In 1948, he toured the United States with Henry Wallace, who ran as a presidential candidate on the Progressive Party ticket.

He is the author of such songs as "If I Had A Hammer," and "Where Have All the Flowers Gone?"

The disputed performance has had a long legal history.

On Feb. 28 of this year, the Supreme Court ruled in favor of the school board. A month later, however, the Appellate Division dismissed the case on the ground that the controversy was no longer valid because the performance date had passed.

Bard argued that the Appellate Division's action was an "unlawful restriction...of the rights of free speech and assembly" and did not provide for recourse.

Bard also told the court that Seeger would be available for a concert June 18, June 28 or July 6.

Utica Man Charged With Forgery Counts

NEW YORK (AP) — A Utica, N.Y. man free on bail pending appeal of an armed robbery conviction in Florida has been charged with eight counts of second degree forgery in a Diners Club swindle.

Police seized the man, Dominick Beretti, 28, Thursday in a Utica hospital. They said Beretti had claimed illness but doctors at the hospital assured them he was fit to travel and he was lodged in the city prison here.

The New York County District Attorney's Office said Beretti was free in $72,000 bail in the Florida case. It said Miami detectives also want to question him about a $2-million jewel robbery at the Sun and Spa Hotel, Harbor Island, Fla.

Cleaning Up Waters

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says almost half a billion dollars now at work in projects to clean up the waters of New York State.

He said grants to municipalities are providing $224 million in the construction of sewage treatment plants and waste interceptor systems. The state is setting up another $126 million for three more state aid pure water programs.

SCHEMATIC DIAGRAM SHOWS HOW TOTAL ENERGY WORKS

Oil-powered engine (or turbine) drives the generator to make electricity. Heat from the jacket water and exhaust is recovered in an exhaust heat exchanger which also serves as a silencer. The auxiliary boiler supplements engine heat as necessary to produce steam or hot water for building heating, processing, absorption cooling.

Proven in hundreds of installations, this space-age, "here-today" concept offers new energy dependability and economy in applications almost without number

Here is absolute control of your electrical power, heat, hot water supply, air conditioning . . . freedom from dependence on utility service . . . at truly remarkable savings. Total Energy installations, coast to coast, harness the inherent energy of petroleum in double measure: first, to generate electricity; second: to recover, with exceptional efficiency, normally-wasted engine heat, eliminating any other, outside fuel needs. Result: escape from utility transmission, distribution, sales, administration and profit charges and alternate, purchased fuel expense — savings that can completely return your initial investment in as little as five years. Result: Total Reliability from Total Energy — blackout-free performance, unmatched by any utility's operating service record.

Use Tear Gas

PANAMA (AP) — National Guardsmen used tear gas to disperse bands of rock-throwing youths who smashed street lights, turned in false fire alarms and littered the streets of Panama City Thursday night. The disorders have continued for several nights.

Earlier, soldiers in Colon, 38 miles to the northwest, hurled tear gas grenades to break up efforts by about 200 students to set up makeshift barricades in the downtown area.

The incident took place after more than 1,500 persons marched through Colon in a funeral procession for two students killed in rioting last Monday.

The rioting resulted from student protests over the unexplained killing of Juan Navas Pajaro, an ultra-leftist student leader.

Helping Egypt

CAIRO (AP) — The Soviet Union is supplying Egypt a new $165-million credit to help President Gamal Abdel Nasser with his second five-year economic development plan, the semi-official paper Al Ahram reported today.

Al Ahram said Nasser had received a special message from Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin informing him of the Soviet government's decision to approve the credit, which Nasser requested during Kosygin's visit to Egypt last month.

Rats Eating Good

ROME (AP) — In vast regions of the world where hunger is worst, the rats are eating better than the people.

The U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization estimated today that rats and other pests consume 20 per cent of all grain produced in the Far East, with the loss as high as 25 per cent in some of the most teeming, undernourished countries.

Transfers Listed For Area Priests

Transfer of area priests was announced Thursday by His Eminence, Francis Cardinal Spellman.

The Rev. Thomas A. Gallagher of the Church of Regina Coeli, Hyde Park has been transferred to Our Lady of Rosary Church, Yonkers. His post will be filled by the Rev. Francis J. Sample, newly ordained.

The Rev. Joseph B. Hynds of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Dobbs Ferry has been assigned to the Church of the Good Shepherd, Rhinebeck replacing the Rev. John L. Quinn who has been assigned to the Church of the Sacred Heart, Hartsdale.

Newly ordained priest, the Rev. Edward A. Pipala has received summer assignment to the church of St. John the Evangelist, Clove.

Former assistant at St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, the Rev. Donald P. Reidy has been named to St. Mary's Church, Staten Island. He had been at Nativity of Our Blessed Lady Church, Bronx.

Reject Seaman's Plea

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top union leaders rejected the striking seamen's plea for support Thursday night, dealing them a hard blow. This, coupled with weakening in the ranks of the strikers, may force the union to the negotiating table soon.

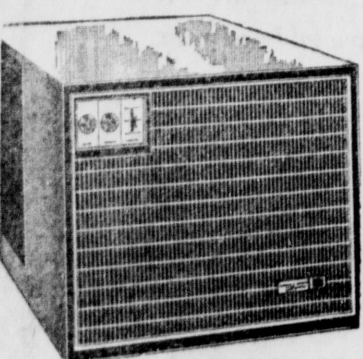

"You can expect no further help from us. You are on your own," leaders of the Trades Union Council told the National Union of Seamen after unsuccessfully trying to persuade the chiefs of the striking union to negotiate a settlement of the four-week-old strike.

William Hogarth, boss of the seamen's union, said that despite the TUC rebuff his union could carry on the strike for "at least another eight weeks."

But the seamen's strike fund of $453,000 is believed to be nearly exhausted. The union sent letters Thursday to all TUC unions asking for contributions. The 23,000 striking seamen are each drawing $8.40 a week in strike pay.

The seamen's union wants the strikers' work week reduced from 56 hours to 40 so they will get overtime pay for the other 16. This in effect would give them a 17 per cent raise in pay, far above the 3.5 per cent guideline which Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government is trying to hold.

Successful Businessmen Now Travel More Than Before

By SALLY RYAN
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The man who is going places geographically, too.

Twenty years of economic expansion have set off an industrial migration, the saga of the corporate gypsy—men like Lamont M. Cruse, 30, assistant to the president of Burlington Hosiery Co. in New York City.

Cruse, a native of Harriman, Tenn., has moved eight times in nine years.

Over half of the nation's population moved between 1955 and 1960, and the rate has been increasing.

Many moves are set off when dad is transferred.

"Lots of companies are expanding along with the economy, so there are more plants located at places where people never considered moving before," Cruse said.

Thing of the Future

"It's becoming the thing of the future," he said. "Rootless executives. Younger men are much more mobile than ever, and probably will continue that way for a long time to come."

Western Electric Co. Inc., which has 157,600 employees, estimates it will transfer 1,800 of them this year — 300 to 500 more than normal — to man its new regional centers.

"People get in the pattern of transfers," said Clifton C. Field Jr. of Western Electric. "Many people are permanent transients, and there will be more and more. With companies decentralizing, transfers are inevitable."

Field said that generally there was more resistance to transfers from older employees who never have moved. Virtually no one wants to move when he has children in high school, Field said.

General Telephone & Electronics Corp., which employs 122,000, transferred 58 key management employees last year.

"As a rule, upward-oriented people are anxious to move, looking for the opportunity rather than resisting it," said Harris Reinhardt, manager of employee and college relations for Sylvia Electric Products Inc., a division of General Telephone.

"There's always a little more money, prestige — the incentives we hold out," he said.

Can Turn Down Move

Usually the companies say an employee can turn down any proposed move. The unstated alternative in the past, however, often has been the company shelf.

But some companies report that, with the growing labor shortage, the man now may have another chance.

"It's not an area where it is very good to force anyone very hard," said Reinhardt.

Besides the lure of a promotion and a bigger salary, the companies usually absorb the cost of the move.

The American Management Association surveyed 800 firms and found they spent about $1,500 to $2,000 on each transfer.

Western Electric estimates its transfers cost an average of $6,000 — a total of nearly $11 million this year. That figure includes taking over an employee's old house and helping him find a new one, transportation, packing and moving, lodging, meals plus other items.

"The easiest place to fill is New England," Reinhardt said. "We have lots of plants in small towns, and there are a multitude who don't want to come to New York."

"People figure going to New York is a fate worse than death — worse than being sentenced to Alcatraz," he said.

Western Electric says it is easier to fill its posts in San Francisco and Denver than in New York and Chicago.

But Donald E. DE Voto, who runs a Chicago company which searches for executives, says men on the move prefer Chicago, New York or Los Angeles. These are the professional executives, switching from company to company.

To Make Public Shrine

NEW YORK (AP) — Northern Ireland will make the ancestral home of the late President Woodrow Wilson a public shrine.

The British Travel Service announced Thursday in New York that the Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre, Episcopal dean of the Washington Cathedral in the nation's capital, will conduct the ceremonies opening the house at Strabane, near Londonderry.

The home once belonged to James Wilson, grandfather of President Wilson, who migrated to the United States in 1807.

Last Americans Fade in Britain

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — The last two Americans and a Scot now living in Michigan were eliminated today in the fifth round of the British Amateur Golf Championship.

Henri de Lamaze, 11-time winner of the French amateur, defeated Richard Anthony of Andalusia, Ala., 1 up.

Bobby Cole, an 18-year-old South African protégé of Gary Player, downed Charles McCallum, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., real estate man, 1 up.

Gordon Cosh, a Scottish Walker Cup player, beat Hunter McDonald, a 25-year-old Scot living in Southfield, Mich., 1 up.

To Receive Letters

ATWATER, Calif. (AP) — Marine Pvt. Curtis Mason, now stationed in Viet Nam, will receive 30 letters from 30 girls in his home town.

The letters were the girls' final examination in high school English.

Said teacher Larry Wentz: "Eventually exams go into the wastebasket, but doing something like this is live and not throwing talent away."

Merger of Rails Slated Aug. 1

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Plans have been announced by the Pennsylvania Railroad to make its merger with the New York Central Railroad effective Aug. 1.

The Interstate Commerce Commission authorized the merger April 27 providing certain conditions were met. Boards of directors of both companies have accepted the conditions.

Chairman Stuart T. Saunders of the Pennsy said in a letter to stockholders—in addition to announcing the merger date—that a special meeting would be held July 21 to approve the conditions that the boards of directors already have approved.

Saunders urged their approval, and said the merger "will enable us to create the third of three competitively balanced rail systems in the east and provide necessary resources to withstand the challenge of the two systems already in operation."

He named these carriers as the Chesapeake & Ohio-Baltimore & Ohio and the Norfolk & Western, which has been merged with the Nickel Plate and Wabash.

Saunders added that the merger will produce substantial savings and improved earnings. He said it will result in greatly improved service to the public and more economical transportation. Meanwhile the New York Central announced Thursday it would hold a special shareholders meeting to approve the merger.

Unusual River Look

REDWOOD FALLS, Minn. (AP) — Ken Sanders of Minneapolis, Minn., is grasping the wheel, handle bars and a paddle for a close look at the Minnesota River.

Sanders, working alone week-ends to collect river data of interest to canoe and boating enthusiasts, drives his car to the latest spot visited, and launches his canoe with a small motor scooter aboard. He paddles downstream, making explorations and notations. After traveling a few miles he beaches the canoe, hops on the scooter and rides back to his car to repeat the performance.

There was no lack of exhibitors at the show, held Wednesday at Saugerties Reformed Church and, when judging for the day was over, recently retired Saugerties Police Chief Harold Mills had proved beyond all doubt that he is possessed of a green thumb. GOP Reception Draws Hundreds

Hundreds of supporters of Alexander Aldrich, GOP congressional candidate in the 28th District, attended a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fabian L. Russell, Arrowfield, Saugerties, given by the Saugerties for Aldrich Committee last Sunday.

In attendance were key workers, businessmen and professional men from the Hudson Valley.

Also attending was Dr. Carl Roesch, prominent West German educator, legislator and delegate in the West German Federal Parliament from 1961-1965. Dr. Roesch presented Aldrich with a stuffed toy elephant from West Germany, as a good luck charm for the coming Republican primary on Tuesday, June 28. Dr. Roesch is a cousin of Mrs. August Hermann, Simmons Drive, Barclay Heights.

During the reception, William D. Brinnier, Northern Ulster coordinator for Aldrich, introduced other candidates present: Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson; Albert Spada, candidate for county clerk; Clark Bell and Louis Francello, candidates for delegates to the Constitutional Convention. J. Watson Pomeroy, also a Constitutional Convention delegate, was unable to be present and sent his regrets.

Aldrich expressed his appreciation to the people of Saugerties for the enthusiastic support they have shown and stressed how important he considered Ulster County and every possible Republican vote he could get from the county in the June 28 primary.

Aldrich said a candidate's own experience is his chief qualification for office and what he does is a reflection on what he is.

The Official Board has voted to begin the summer schedule of services on June 26 and this year the time has been changed to 9:30 a. m. with Sunday School in the parish house at the same hour for children 3-8. Vacation Bible School will be held June 27-July 8, excepting the holiday, from 9:30-11:30 a. m. Classes will be held for Nursery through Juniors. Pre-registration will be held at the church on June 22 at 7 p. m.

that Rickard allegedly struck and killed the boy while he was residing with his family at a trailer camp at Lake Katrine and then placed the body in a sack which was thrown in the Hudson River from the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge.

Body Not Recovered

The body was never recovered. Investigation of the case was instituted after the brother of the dead boy told neighbors in Brooklyn that Victor had disappeared. Search for Rickard extended through the states and finally authorities uncovered information that the wanted man had signed up as a seaman aboard a ship which went to India.

Contact was made with authorities in that country and Rickard was taken into custody as he left the ship at Madras.

Investigator Lismann and MacKinnon left for India on May 3 armed with a Presidential Warrant and other documents that were presented at an extradition hearing held May 21.

State of Madras Chief Presidency Magistrate Sri. Z. Balarajah conducted the hearing, at the conclusion of which he ruled that a prima-facie case had been presented and that Lismann and MacKinnon had submitted proof Rickard was an American and that the trooper and the attorney were assigned as custodians of Rickard by the United States.

Extradition First

The extradition of Rickard was the first ever made involving India and the United States, according to Lismann.

Under the governmental extradition treaty between the two countries, there was a 15-day waiting period between the conclusion of the hearing and the release of a prisoner. During that time the Central India Government in Delhi reviews the case and United States documents to make certain the accused has been informed of and accorded his rights as a citizen.

On Wednesday, Rickard was turned over to the custody of Lismann and MacKinnon and after a plane trip of 24 hours of flying, the accused and his attorneys arrived in Kingston shortly before 6 p. m. yesterday.

When booked at the county jail, Rickard said he has no permanent address.

man of the Board's Special Committee on Reapportionment, was out-of-town.

Long Study
The matter of reapportionment has been under study for some time by the Special Reapportionment Committee but no action report has been made pending determination of the action in Supreme Court brought by Harry M. Thayer and Robert E. Davis to compel the board to reapportion under "one person, one vote" rule.

There will be no regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors until June 23, when an adjourned meeting will be held. Members of the special Committee on Reapportionment are: Savago, chairman; Charles R. Relyea, (R); Hurley; Peter Williams (R); Saugerties; Thaddeus Musiakiewicz (R); Ulster; Addison Jones (R) Second Ward; Douglas Dye (R); Town of Kingston; Roger Mabie, (D); Esopus; Thomas J. Shay Jr., (D); Lloyd, and James J. Carroll, (D), Tenth Ward.

Justice Kane, in a decision handed down on Wednesday, ruled that both the Board of Supervisors and the Kingston Common Council were "unconstitutionally" functioning and directed that both bodies take steps to reapportion to comply with the "one person, one vote" law. Justice Kane directed that this be accomplished by December 31, 1966, or the Court would take over and reapportion. Meanwhile the Court directed that one of the conditions of his order be that both legislative bodies make reports to the Court monthly on progress being made.

Decision Is

to attend the school budget public hearing on Wednesday night. Area organizations are urged by the board to assign representatives to attend the budget hearing and urge the school board to reconsider and include an appropriation in the budget.

Attending last night's meeting of the library trustees in addition to Baltz were G. Herbert DeKay, Amos Newcombe, Mrs. Harry Gold, Robert O'Reilly, Mrs. Harold Davis and E. James Matthews. Unable to attend were Mrs. Jack Clair and Judge Hugh Elwyn.

Wants $24,000 Included
The library board had requested the Board of Education to include an item of $24,000 in the school budget for the library. Last year a request for $15,000 was requested and approved.

Arthur H. Withall, president of the school board, said that at the time the $15,000 item was approved in 1965 for the library, the trustees were informed that the action of the board was "not a commitment" for every year. Withall noted the heavy increase in costs of operations of the schools in the Kingston Consolidated District, and said, "The only items approved by the board of education in the 1966-67 budget are those essential to the day-time school operations."

obtained the correct information simply by checking with the city's own Urban Renewal office. Eric Hemphill, Urban Renewal director, confirmed to this Association today that the proposed Uptown Renewal Project plans tentatively provide for one-way northbound traffic over Clinton Avenue to Fair Street extension.

The mayor was mistaken again when he stated that when a plan is in execution traffic pattern changes in the area are to change immediately. The established procedure is for the Urban Renewal agency to construct, widen and improve the streets as called for in the plan, then recommend traffic pattern changes to the Common Council for adoption.

"We know the traffic plan originally incorporated into the Master Plan is five years old and subject to changes. We are ready to work to facilitate the traffic flow through the Uptown area, and between Uptown and the Plaza. The mayor's name calling and general attitude is hardly conducive to the solution of the problems which face all of us Uptown."

Endorsed Renewal
"The Board of Directors of the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association last year endorsed Uptown Urban Renewal as once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for obtaining needed funds for making improvements that will benefit city taxpayers and bolster the economy of the entire area. This endorsement was announced to press and radio June 29, 1965, by the then president, Adrian Kaplan. No change in this position has taken place since."

"Action in restoring one-way traffic to Clinton Avenue resulted from the number of complaints about traffic congestion that have been received. Many of our members have since received compliments from the public for our part in helping to restore one-way traffic. We should also point out that we are only one of several groups and individuals advocating a return to one-way traffic. A total of 10 of the city's 13 Aldermen voted in favor of the one-way pattern. "As for any implied attempt to hurt Kingston Plaza, the Association would like to point out that the Urban Renewal plan, which has the Association's endorsement, provides for extending Clinton Avenue right to the Plaza's entrance. If our only motive were to do away with the Plaza, we would not have endorsed such a plan."

Injurious to Traffic
"After a fair trial, it became evident that Mayor Garraghan's two-way traffic pattern profited no one and indeed was injurious to both Plaza and Uptown traffic. We believe the one-way pattern is best for all concerned."

"All of us will have problems while Urban Renewal is in execution. But Uptown Kingston and the Plaza have wonderful opportunity, with their proximity to the Thruway Interchange, the traffic circle and arterial route; with the renewal project in execution, and with Uptown's unique historical position and heritage. Working together, we can become the largest, most accessible, and the best shopping area between Metropolitan New York and Albany."

applauded when he addressed the diners as "fellow Republicans." Then he was booed good-naturedly when he referred to himself as a "fusion mayor."

Besides the candidates and Lindsay, speakers included Sen. Jacob J. Javits, former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and the party's legislative leaders, State Sen. Earl Brydges and Assemblyman Perry Duryea.

The launching of the campaign began early Thursday with a rally in front of the New York Hilton Hotel, which houses the Republican campaign headquarters.

The kickoff came almost five months before the November election. Rockefeller's Democratic opponent will not be chosen until early in September.

errors, the governor fought his last-minute, losing fight against Barry Goldwater for the presidential nomination.

Had former President Dwight D. Eisenhower pulled the rug out from under him? Eisenhower has said he never put the rug there in the first place. Scranton now says this:

"The general never said he'd support me but he certainly gave me a lot of encouragement. I never would have thought of going ahead if he hadn't. But I'm not blaming him. It was my own decision not to."

Scranton, at 48, still young-looking and lithe, in his button-down shirt and air of "cool" still suggesting the Ivy League and the Republican version of John F. Kennedy his followers had hoped to project in 1964, said he is quitting active politics to spend more time with his family.

Baltimore said it would join, too, after a rally Sunday.

"It is my belief from the warm reception received along the road, both in Tennessee and Mississippi, that my walk may have done something to alleviate the heavy burden of fear which rests upon Mississippi Negroes," Meredith said in a statement read to newsmen by a minister.

James Farmer, former director of the Congress of Racial Equality who walked with the group Thursday, told the 300 or more who participated:

"If the blood of James Meredith is not to be wasted, every Negro that can put one foot in front of another and lift a hand to a pen must register and vote."

County Storm

failure there and in the northern fringes of the city, from 1:42 to 2:30 this morning.

Scattered Trouble

Bloomington, Lyonsville, Minnewaska, Kerhonkson and Lake Katrine were among other trouble spots, Benjamin said. He said that it was necessary to "de-energize" a circuit about 2:15 this morning when a car struck a utility pole in front of Kingston High School during the storm.

G. Alan Johnson, local representative of the New York Telephone Company reported that, "We were very fortunate." He said that there was nothing out of order as a result of the storm and that the trouble was confined to the usual scattered repairs.

The Ulster County Highway Department reported that all roads were passable today. A department official said that there were some minor slides in such areas as Hurley Mt. Road and the Connelly area due to loose dirt from sewer construction, but there were no traffic hazards or tie-ups.

The storms dumped well over two inches of much-needed rain in both the city and county.

Kingston's engineering office at city hall reported a rainfall of 1.4 inches from about 10 Thursday night to 8 a. m. today. Cooper Lake reservoir, the city's chief source of water supply and which has been full to capacity in recent months, reported an overnight rainfall of 1.14 inches. Maintenance officials described the supply as being "in good shape."

A reading of 2.37 inches of new rain was reported through 8 this morning at the Ashokan Reservoir.

Fear for Crops

As the storm moved eastward, Hudson Valley region orchard owners became fearful that hail would damage seriously the budding fruit crops. Hail the size of ping-pong balls was reported in Millbrook, northeast of Poughkeepsie in nearby Dutchess County.

However, William H. Palmer, Ulster County agricultural agent, County Extension Service, Agriculture Department, told "The Freeman" that his office, which receives regular reports from county growers, had not received reports of damage in this county, although such reports could come in upon survey of their crops by the growers.

There were other fires in the county prior to, during and after the storm, but it could not be determined whether any of them were connected with the storm.

New Paltz and Gardiner volunteers responded to a house fire about 12:20 this morning on DuBois Street south of New Paltz.

Lake Hill and Woodstock responded at 5:20 a. m. to a blaze which destroyed a storage building off Rt. 212 near Cooper Lake. Woodstock Fire Chief Duncan Wilson said that cause of that fire was unknown. Firemen returned to service at 7:08 a. m.

Firemen Busy

Earlier, at 7:46 Thursday night, Wallkill responded to a barn fire where they remained until 10:32 p. m. after earlier reports by Ulster County Mutual Aid's fire control center included a building fire in West Hurley, dump fires fought by Olive Bridge and Marlboro, and car fires fought by Highland and Clintondale—all prior to the storm.

Saugerties was one of the areas where the storm left visible proof of its violence. Two tree limbs, one nearly a foot in circumference, fell on two cars parked in a driveway on West Bridge Street in the village.

Second Major Storm
It was the second violent storm within four days in which hailstones pelted the area.

Hailstones, described as being as "big as golf balls" rained on Saugerties Monday afternoon during a violent storm. Many property owners reported heavy damage to flowers as the giant-sized hailstones bounced off lawns in the town and village.

The hailstones which struck during Thursday's storm were described as being smaller than those that fell Monday.

However, there appeared to be considerably more damage as streets in and around the village were littered with tree limbs and scattered debris.

Elsewhere in the state, the Associated Press reported, damage was much more severe in the storm's aftermath.

In Buffalo Thursday night, a 23-year-old man was killed when his automobile struck a stalled car during a heavy rainstorm on the Youngman Memorial Highway. The victim was John Walgate of Buffalo.

Damage in Syracuse
Heavy damage to property was reported in Syracuse, where winds reached 50 miles an hour during the peak of the storm. Thirteen persons were reported injured when the winds swept through a trailer park and overturned several of the mobile homes.

Also in Syracuse, wind blew the roof off the Crispy-Maid Potato Chip building. The $25,000 structure had just been completed.

Residents in the Onondaga County communities of Skaneateles and Fayetteville were without electrical power for about three hours.

Work crews from the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. worked throughout the night to restore service.

Police in Syracuse reported that many streets were blocked with fallen limbs and electrical power lines.

The city's fire department worked feverishly to combat a series of small fires that erupted and were believed caused by lightning.

There were some reports that telephone service was interrupted along the storm.

Late Bulletin

To Re-try Sheppard

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Samuel H. Sheppard will be retried on a second-degree murder charge in the 1954 bludgeoning of his first wife, Marilyn. Prosecutor John T. Corrigan said today.

Sheppard already has served nine years in prison on a second-degree murder conviction by a Cuyahoga County Common Pleas jury Dec. 21, 1954. He has been free on $10,000 bond since July 16, 1964, while appealing on fair trial.

Say Part-Time

retary whose appointment would extend beyond the term of the administration in office.

Also proposed is a consolidation of the legal problems affecting the city officials and agencies under supervision of the law department. At present time, it was noted, there is no point of contact between the administration and/or urban renewal and/or housing and several other so-called autonomous agencies whose legal policies may or may not coincide with the views of the corporation counsel.

A third point proposed sufficient legal personnel to adequately cope with the city's legal problems. Murphy hopes for a four-person department, but would start with three at a cost of $20,000 to the city, of which the full amount might be contributed by the city's financially independent agencies. He noted several hundred matters now pending, among which are an undetermined number of tax reduction cases, and claims filed since Jan. 1, 1966 totalling $500,000.

Finally Murphy says, his proposal would eliminate the conflict of interest situation which inevitably plague a single lawyer with the job of representing the mayor, the Common Council and all other agencies. This could be done by assigning different members of the law department as counsel to agencies whose interests conflict.

lead to federal disaster grants for stricken areas.

Mayor Charles W. Wright Jr. planned to ask nearby cities for equipment and personnel to help clear debris. Some had already sent aid and others offered anything needed.

Heavy tree trunks, chunks of buildings, and battered cars littered many parts of town, even after a full day of cleanup which succeeded in opening all streets to some degree. One city official said the cleanup chore is expected to take at least four weeks.

The tornado was the worst in the city's history. It skipped over a mound at the southwest edge of town shortly before dusk Wednesday and, ranging up to one-half mile wide, it swept a 15-mile path of death and destruction through the city.

The Red Cross said about 2,000 dwelling units were destroyed, said Mayor Wright who figured damage at between $75 million and $100 million.

Wright said the number of Topekan left homeless ranged from 2,000 to nearly 5,000 but probably is somewhere in between the two extremes. A factual count is not expected to be completed for several days.

Route 5 outside the hamlet of Sennett, near Auburn, was closed for several hours when trees and a barn were blown across the highway.

In Western New York, tornado-like winds slammed the Erie County community of Holland, where trailer-homes were overturned and power lines and trees snapped and cluttered streets.

In Chautauqua County, winds ripped out boat docks along Chautauqua Lake and sent boats adrift. The cities of Salamanca and Jamestown were without power for several hours.

Lightning struck the plant of the Elmira Star-Gazette newspaper, causing about 50 employees to flee the buildings. One was reported injured. The lightning started a small fire and cut power to the plant.

In Livingston County, large hailstones shattered windows and damaged trees.

Spa Racing Curtailed
On the other side of the state, winds, rain and a power failure curtailed the racing program at Saratoga Raceway in Saratoga Springs.

Thursday before the first race failed and darkened the entire city. Officials at the Raceway started the program but called it off after six races.

As the storm moved eastward, fruit growers and truck farmers from Albany south, prepared for damage to their crops.

In the Hudson Valley region, orchard owners were fearful that hail would damage seriously the budding fruit crops. Hail the size of ping-pong balls were reported in Millbrook, northeast of Poughkeepsie early today.

The storms did bring much-needed rain to the state, which has recorded deficiencies for nearly five years.

In Olean, where hail and high winds belted through Thursday night, nearly three inches of rain had fallen.

Australian tennis stars have participated in every Davis Cup challenge round since 1939.

Sen. Mansfield Defends Johnson On Viet Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says that if Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen wants a congressional leadership conference on Viet Nam "the President will meet him more than halfway."

Mansfield said today in an interview he couldn't see "any harm" in the kind of bipartisan White House meeting his GOP counterpart urged Thursday in challenging administration credibility.

But he questioned whether any new light would be shed and echoed White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyer's defense of Johnson in saying "I think he has held more joint leadership meetings than any other President."

GOP Support Johnson

Implied in Dirksen's and House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford's sharp assault on what they saw as a lack of administration candor was the issue of Republican support for Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

Ford, contending that a "consensus of no confidence is coming to pass" on administration domestic policies, said Republicans want to support the President "when he is either right or of the right intent."

But he contended neither Republicans nor Democrats in Congress can know "what is right or of right intent in the President's policies unless they have the facts upon which to base their judgments."

And Dirksen complained that Johnson hadn't called a meeting of Republican and Democratic congressional leaders on Viet Nam since February — before the outbreak of political turbulence — and urged that he convene one immediately to clarify "the shape of things to come."

With such understanding, Dirksen said, the American people "will be better able to provide that unqualified support so necessary to the winning of a swift, secure and honorable peace."

Obstructs Traffic

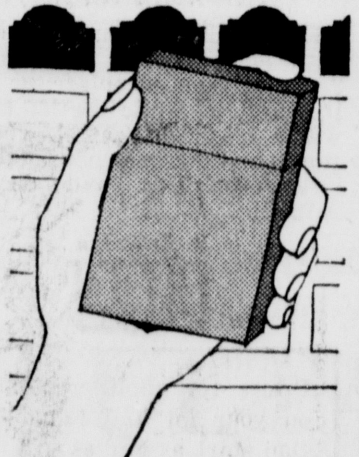

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A crutch does not make a legally acceptable traffic signal, a crippled widow who used one to guide traffic at an intersection has learned.

Vernice Hunter, 51, who became a self-appointed traffic director when she couldn't get a traffic light installed in her neighborhood, was fined $1 Thursday for obstructing traffic.

The judge said he was sympathetic, but he told Mrs. Hunter, "Taking the law into your hands is not the right way."

Alma Bringing Rain, Winds to Georgia

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — The remnants of Hurricane Alma, which might diminish after hitting the Florida Panhandle, is splashing through Georgia today.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami predicted rains up to eight inches along a wide path from Georgia to the Carolinas. The center warned of possible flooding.

Tornado-like winds apparently churned by Alma's dwindling strength were reported in several parts of Georgia.

But Alma no longer met hurricane standards with winds of 75 miles per hour or more. Her highest winds were estimated at 70 m.p.h., and reported ebbing.

The early-season monster from the tropics, charged with 47 deaths in three nations, was reported moving northeastward from near Valdosta about 12 miles per hour.

Alma roared into the Florida Panhandle Thursday with winds estimated at 100 miles per hour.

Houses Damaged

Some houses were damaged and pecan trees uprooted when high winds with characteristics of a tornado lashed a rural section five miles northeast of Albany, Ga.

Another windstorm, also possibly a small tornado, struck west of Augusta, Ga., blowing away a tool shed and nearly unroofing a home.

Eleven soldiers were hospitalized at Fort Gordon near Augusta, Ga., when a bus overturned on wet pavement.

The storm's 47 fatalities represented 35 deaths in Honduras, near where the storm spawned with torrential rains last Monday; seven in Cuba, and five in Florida.

Officials have not made any estimate of damage to Florida.

Damage to crops in food rationed Cuba was believed considerable. Tobacco, once Cuba's second important commodity, next to sugar, was reported a heavy casualty in western Cuba.

Fidel Castro made an inspection tour of stricken areas near Havana and ordered speedy reconstruction.

Yachtsmen Given

Mohawk-Hudson Yacht Clubs.

The Kingston Power Boat Association Inc., with Charles J. Cole, local public works superintendent, as commodore, was host to the council. Dinner and cocktails were prepared and served by a KPBA committee headed by Thomas J. Fenney.

Oil pollution and debris violations, Section 407, Title 33 of the U. S. Code were cited by delegates.

The meeting was presided over by Council Commodore, Edward A. Cibilas of Castleton. Guest speakers in attendance were: John Logan, representing Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick; Howard J. Lampl, harbor supervisor; U. S. Army Corp of Engineers; Fred C. Kaune, investigator, Security and Law Enforcement Division N. Y. District Corp of Engineers and Isiah Katcher, U. S. Army Corp of Engineers.

The Mohawk-Hudson Council of Yacht Clubs has been a prime mover in seeking adequate legislation and enforcement of state and federal laws relating to the pollution and littering of the navigable waters within their area. Violations by snipping interests discharging oil and damage into the navigable waters were of prime concern to the delegates. Shorelines blighted by abandoned vessels and decaying derelicts were also brought to the attention of Congressman Resnick and representatives of the Corp of Engineers.

The council was advised by Lampl that violators should be promptly reported and, if possible, samples collected and submitted for analyzing by chemists. Under applicable laws, violations carry a penalty of not more than $2,500, one year imprisonment or both.

The delegates were assured that prompt investigations would follow any complaints registered. Locally, all companies will be handled through Fred C. Kaune, investigator, Security and Law Enforcement, with headquarters in the Army Reserve Center on Flatbush Avenue. A patrol craft commanded by Kaune, will soon be in service to expedite investigations.

Logan assured the council members that Congressman Resnick, as in the past, would continue to work toward proper legislation and the need for sufficient funds to enable the federal authorities to clean up our waterways and keep them properly policed.

Other interested parties in attendance who are equally concerned with the pollution and debris problem included: George Wiegert, vice commander Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 10-12 Kingston, Herb Hyde, commander Flotilla 15-1 Scheectady.

Several exchanges of correspondence between the town and Rondout Marine, Inc., Connelly over an alleged drainage problem at the marina were read. First Street, Connelly, adjacent to the former shipyard is a county highway and apparently the County Highway Department plans to install curbing along the side of First Street to retain and direct the highway water run-off in the area.

The marina has recently installed paving and landscaping on its property, removed a number of former shipyard buildings and considerably improved the appearance of the property.

The Board of Commissioners of the Port of Rondout Water District reported that the average daily usage during May had been 225,860 gallons. DeVal H. Dunbar, building inspector, reported the issuance of six building permits during the month with a total valuation of the work undertaken of $82,000. The permits covered four houses, an addition to one of the shop buildings of the Society of Brothers at Rifton, and a greenhouse. It was also reported that the new novitiate at the St. Cabrini Home, West Park, had been completed at a final cost of $1,400,000, nearly $50,000 over the original estimate.

Harry Mains, town fire marshal, reported on 20 inspection trips made by him during April and May. Marshal Mains covered over 350 miles on his inspection trips to all parts of the township. The greatest complaint was the setting of spring brush fires too close to buildings.

It was disclosed that the Army Corps of Engineers plans to undertake maintenance dredging of Rondout Creek during the late summer and early fall.

Three different locations in the creek apparently are going to be deepened to remove accumulated sand and silt. One area is near the mouth of the creek near the old gas house, another opposite the western end of Island Dock, and the other area in the channel west of the Callanan quarry.

The board granted permission to Highway Superintendent Mercurio to attend the School for highway superintendents, conducted by the Association of Towns at Cornell University on June 20 to 22.

Esopus Adopts

view made of all existing town ordinances during the past several months by a committee headed by Councilman Sol Rosenthal.

The ordinance amendments will be published in full in the near future in the legal columns of the Freeman, the Town's official newspaper, and will take effect 10 days after publication.

A delegation of residents was present from the Spring Valley Acres development, St. Remy, again protesting the odors resulting from the manure disposal operation of an adjacent, automated chicken farm. Residents from the development were present at Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's public hearing on air pollution held in Kingston Monday, and made statements. The Town Board agreed to support the formation of a County Air Pollution Control Unit, one of the suggestions resulting from the Congressman's hearing.

A letter was received from the State Department of Commerce acknowledging the receipt of the Town Planning Board's application for a planning assistance program for the Town of Esopus. If approved, the state would pay five-sixths of the cost of the project and the town the remaining one-sixth.

The Town Board of Assessors announced that Grievance Day would be held Tuesday, June 21, at the Town Hall, Port Ewen from 9:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. The assessors also announced that all property owners on whose property a change in assessment had been made by letter be notified of the change by letter.

Letters were received from the State Board of Equalization and Assessment giving the assessments for 1966 in the town on state-owned lands and on utility properties. The assessment on state-owned lands, totalling $1,720, was the same as 1965 and the assessments on utility properties was $240,857, an $8,851 increase over last year. Representatives of the state board will meet with the Town Board and Assessors Wednesday, June 15, to discuss a study made by the state group in 1965 of real estate market values in the Town of Esopus. The 1965 study was part of a county-wide survey.

Town Highway Superintendent Paul Mercier announced that the piping of the section of the drainage ditch in the northwest section of Port Ewen planned for 1966 had been completed. The piping of additional sections are planned for succeeding years. It was also announced that substantial improvements had been made to the roadway of Mill Brook Drive as part of the follow-up of the water extension to Connelly. The supply water main to Connelly had been laid in this highway.

A report made on behalf of the Ross Park Commission noted that the annual summer program of organized recreation carried out at the Park would commence on Monday, June 27 and continue until September 2. In addition to the regular sports, game and craft and hobby program, a series of special events are planned. Included are outdoor moving pictures, teenage dances and at least one band concert. The commissioners have purchased several items of new equipment for the park and this equipment is expected to be installed prior to the start of the regular program.

Several exchanges of correspondence between the town and Rondout Marine, Inc., Connelly over an alleged drainage problem at the marina were read. First Street, Connelly, adjacent to the former shipyard is a county highway and apparently the County Highway Department plans to install curbing along the side of First Street to retain and direct the highway water run-off in the area.

It was disclosed that the Army Corps of Engineers plans to undertake maintenance dredging of Rondout Creek during the late summer and early fall.

Three different locations in the creek apparently are going to be deepened to remove accumulated sand and silt. One area is near the mouth of the creek near the old gas house, another opposite the western end of Island Dock, and the other area in the channel west of the Callanan quarry.

The board granted permission to Highway Superintendent Mercurio to attend the School for highway superintendents, conducted by the Association of Towns at Cornell University on June 20 to 22.

The Town Board of Assessors announced that Grievance Day would be held Tuesday, June 21, at the Town Hall, Port Ewen from 9:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. The assessors also announced that all property owners on whose property a change in assessment had been made by letter be notified of the change by letter.

Letters were received from the State Board of Equalization and Assessment giving the assessments for 1966 in the town on state-owned lands and on utility properties. The assessment on state-owned lands, totalling $1,720, was the same as 1965 and the assessments on utility properties was $240,857, an $8,851 increase over last year. Representatives of the state board will meet with the Town Board and Assessors Wednesday, June 15, to discuss a study made by the state group in 1965 of real estate market values in the Town of Esopus. The 1965 study was part of a county-wide survey.

Town Highway Superintendent Paul Mercier announced that the piping of the section of the drainage ditch in the northwest section of Port Ewen planned for 1966 had been completed. The piping of additional sections are planned for succeeding years. The supply water main to Connelly had been laid in this highway.

A report made on behalf of the Ross Park Commission noted that the annual summer program of organized recreation carried out at the Park would commence on Monday, June 27 and continue until September 2. In addition to the regular sports, game and craft and hobby program, a series of special events are planned. Included are outdoor moving pictures, teenage dances and at least one band concert. The commissioners have purchased several items of new equipment for the park and this equipment is expected to be installed prior to the start of the regular program.

Several exchanges of correspondence between the town and Rondout Marine, Inc., Connelly over an alleged drainage problem at the marina were read. First Street, Connelly, adjacent to the former shipyard is a county highway and apparently the County Highway Department plans to install curbing along the side of First Street to retain and direct the highway water run-off in the area.

The marina has recently installed paving and landscaping on its property, removed a number of former shipyard buildings and considerably improved the appearance of the property.

The Board of Commissioners of the Port of Rondout Water District reported that the average daily usage during May had been 225,860 gallons. DeVal H. pendent packager and produced by Mel Stuart will be more of a sight-seeing trip through the strange world of stocks and bonds than a crash course in turning a quick buck.

Stuart, who also produced both "Making of a President" specials, said that "nobody has ever been able to do anything about Wall Street on television—probably because so much of its activity is cerebral, without much apparent glamor."

His own viewpoint, he said, crystallized when he ran across an apt quotation from an unlikely source, Gertrude Stein: "The money is always there; it's only the pockets that change."

Thus he will show money changing in the hectic but orderly confusion of the exchange floor, talk with some of the big brokers and shrewd traders, follow the birth of a $50 million bond issue.

The producer who moves between motion picture and television shows, says that he is often disappointed by reaction to his TV documentary efforts.

"When I made 'The revolution of the Three R's,' the whole focus of the program was on the new teaching equipment — computers and other aides—that are changing the character of education today," he said. "Then I was criticized because I didn't devote the whole program to one fine, talented, dedicated teacher."

A lot of critics, including this one, found his "making of a President, '64" disappointing when compared to the earlier one.

"And I, on the other hand, thought it was far better," Stuart said.

Horror Story

The education television station in New York, Channel 13, Thursday night presented the American premiere of a real-life horror story. It was a report, in film and still pictures of the nightmare that was the Warsaw ghetto, scene of Nazi brutality, wanton murder, disease, starvation and desperate heroism.

The documentary was made for the British Broadcasting Company by a survivor, Alexander Bernes, the narrator who has spent 20 years collecting the shocking record. It will be broadcast on other stations of the National Educational Television network in the near future, and if you can stand it, it should have some attention.

Recommended week-end viewing.

The Toll House in Whitman, Mass., is one of those famous places that once visited is never forgotten. Probably their best known dish is their famous cream chicken made with a true cream sauce based on butter, and light cream, generously laced with fresh mushrooms and chunks of tenderly cooked chicken. It is a paragon of gourmet delight. We have experimented with this dish 'til we feel it is perfect enough to present to you. So, this Sunday's Special will be CREAM CHICKEN DELUXE served with rice or mashed potato casserole, zesty salad (help-yourself-style), dessert and coffee.

Note Federal Tornado Research On Causes, Control in Sixth Year

An AP Special Report
By LARRY PHIPPS
NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Buildings blasted apart like playing-card houses. Trees broken like discarded match sticks. Homes and lives shattered in a few moments of uncontrolled violence.

Such scenes are created throughout the Midwest and Southwest each year by one of nature's most dreaded excesses — the tornadoes which can spew from almost any severe thunderstorm.

No Control
Nothing known to man can control the ravages of the killer winds — but greater knowledge of the forces which generate the twisters' deadly vortex is saving more lives each year.

The United States, using facilities centered in the university city of Norman, is in the sixth year of an ambitious study of thunderstorms, squall lines and tornadoes.

The studies at the Norman Severe Storms Laboratory already have led to improved predictions which weather experts are using to give advance notice of threatening storm systems.

The tools of the study are many — ground-based radar systems, balloon-borne radio devices, visual sightings, and reports from airplanes which fly into, around and over the storms.

Using F100's

Piloted by Air Force Maj. R. J. VandenHeuvel, one of the key pieces of this year's study is an especially equipped F100 Sabre Jet fighter plane from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton, Ohio.

Maj. VandenHeuvel is a member of the select group called "Rough Riders," men who ride the wild winds of storm systems.

"There isn't a man in my unit who wouldn't like the chance to do what I'm doing," the youthful-appearing major said. "Other pilots are ordered not to get too close to storms — they let me fly right into them."

Guided by radar-watch teams on the ground, VandenHeuvel makes repeated runs through developing storms. The equipment packed into the nose and cockpit of the plane is used to collect and monitor the forces and atmospheric conditions.

Strict Limits
The major is operating under some strict limits because a pilot last year flew into a storm bearing baseball-sized hail.

Frank Dechirico, in charge of maintenance of the Rough Rider aircraft, said the bullet-proof glass on the cockpit was shattered, there were giant holes in the wings and body, and pieces of the wing cover peeled off. "I've been in combat situations, and I've never seen an airplane come back damaged like that plane," he said.

In addition to the Rough Rider flights, an equipment-weighted DC6 will fly around the storms to record peripheral information while a U2 flies over the tops of the storms, which observers say can shoot up thousands of feet in a minute's time.

"No one knows how fast the circular winds in a tornado blow," said Gene Lee, coordinator of aircraft study at the lab in Norman.

No Direct Readings

"We've never been able to get a direct reading on the winds of a twister," Lee said. "Our airplanes can and do fly into hurricanes, but hurricanes have straight winds and seldom blow over 100 miles an hour."

"Tornadoes have vicious circular winds which we think can blow 200 to 500 miles an hour." The study will wind up sometime in June, since this is the period of greatest tornado activity, although twisters have been known to occur any time of the year.

Dr. William Kessler, director of the lab, calls his station — located in what has become known as "Tornado Alley" — the ideal spot.

"No other country has severe storms like the United States," he said. "We just couldn't have picked a better place."

Most Frequent

Tornadoes are most frequent in northern Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri. Records show that tornadoes have claimed an average 197 lives a year over the past 48 years.

During their most frightful blow, tornadoes killed 689 persons in Missouri, Illinois and Indiana on a terrifying sweep on March 18, 1925.

From 1875 through 1965, records show 1,432 tornadoes in Oklahoma, with 1,076 persons killed. The most deadly storm to strike Oklahoma passed over Ellis and Woodward counties on April 8, 1947.

Cutting a swath which ranged up to two miles in width, and hitting portions of Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas, the storm struck Woodward, in western Oklahoma.

It killed 101 persons and injured 782 others. With a sound like an express train, tornadoes form a funnel-shaped cloud which stretches to the ground in its most destructive force.

Air Pressure Cause

The powerful winds, combined with changes in air pressure which can burst buildings as though a bomb had gone off inside, form a threat which can be avoided only by taking cover in reinforced structures, such as storm shelters or inside strong buildings.

The Utica Club Half Case.
For people who have eleven friends and a backyard.

You pick it up by its handy fold-out handle. You take it home. You pop it in the refrig & call eleven friends. They arrive. In a flash. They follow you & your new Utica Club Half Case out back. They admire the foil lining that keeps it cold. They admire the clever little gravity-fed door that keeps a U.C. right at your fingertips. (Designed for refrigerator operation.)

They admire the huge, recloseable garage-type door that gives you a bunch of U.C.'s all at once. (Designed for backyard operation.) Most of all, though, they all admire your taste: "Sure was a fine brew; mind if I have another?" That's the only problem. If you just have one Utica Club Half Case, you won't have eleven friends for long.

THE MATURE PARENT Just Resentful and Fed Up

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I happen to know that a woman in my canasta club rips me up the back whenever she gets a chance. After it has met at my house, she makes fun of me, my refreshments, even the way my house is furnished. She calls me "sexpot" to the other members because I once told them a joke my husband had told me. Yet she's sweet as pie to my face. My friends say I should be bigger than she is instead of letting her bother me.

ANSWER: But you're not that big. So alright. You're little. You're so little you want to tell her off. But can't. You're afraid to. That's the real problem. You can't choose between telling her off and being "big." So it isn't she who is the bothersome thing, it's that fear. And so it should bother you. It's a tyrant. It makes your choice for you. It refuses you any alternative but tolerance of this woman's meanness.

It's only when we're NOT afraid to tell mean people off that we can really overlook their meanness. That's not because we're wonderful. It's because we know we can rid ourselves of the meanness whenever we want to. We can choose to be "big" toward it because we can also choose to be "little" and nasty toward it. But you can't choose to be little and nasty. The fear won't let you. And I'm glad you are getting tired of its bullying.

It's not a new thing with you, is it? Fear of telling mean people off is never a new thing with us. Never, never, never. It always goes way back to punishments of our disappointing nastiness as children — to the horrified, angry, shocked way our punishing parents looked at us when we exposed our nastiness; when our "badness" came into conflict with their notions of what nice, unselfish, good, respectful children ought to be.

The more lovely and painful their punishing disapproval, the more frightened we will be of ever showing ourselves up as nasty. Into our childish memories was burned the warning: "Be nice, good, unselfish and respectful to everybody—or heaven alone knows what will happen to you."

You can't get over that kind of thing in a minute, you know. You just stop listening to these friends of yours who exhort you to be so "big," so admirable. Instead of listening to them, start wondering why you're so scared of letting anyone know that you're not "big" and grand—that you are just an ordinarily resentful person who is now fed up with meanness. It could be the beginning of the end of it. (All rights reserved, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

SUC Graduation Set June 13 at New Paltz, Degrees Due for 860

English and mathematics top the list of subjects for major study among the 260 Liberal Arts seniors and future high school teachers scheduled to graduate Monday, June 13, from the State University College, New Paltz.

Almost 700 seniors in all and 160 graduate students will receive degrees at the annual commencement ceremonies beginning at 10:30 a. m. at the College athletic field.

Next to English and mathematics as favored subjects among the liberal arts students were history, psychology, and biology. Biology and social studies were the next most sought for concentrations among the students in the secondary school education program.

The College this year offered majors in 21 liberal arts subjects. All future teachers, from elementary school through high school, must concentrate in a specialty subject field at the College and supplement those studies with professional education courses.

In the elementary school field, over 150 seniors concentrated their studies in behavioral sciences. English followed with 45; history came third with 31 followed by speech, 19, and mathematics, 16.

Graduates in art education—who will be certified to teach at all levels—will number 82 in the 1966 class. New Paltz is one of two among the State University Colleges which offer the specialized courses needed for New York State certification to teach art. New Paltz and Buffalo, the second college, provide the majority of art teachers for schools throughout the state.

513 students and decorates to 89 students.

JAY P. ROLISON, JR.

Attorney Rolison Jr. Named Guest Speaker For GOP Luncheon

Attorney Jay P. Rolison, Jr., who will be the featured guest speaker at the spring luncheon of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club, is the candidate for the New York State Senate from this district. A member of the law firm of Frederick and Rolison in Poughkeepsie, Mr. Rolison was appointed by Senate Majority Leader Earl Brydges to the position of Minority Counsel to the Democratic controlled Joint Legislative Committee on Court Reorganization, in January of this year.

As speaker at this annual event, which will be held Saturday, June 11, at 12:30 p. m. at the Grand Hotel, Accord, Mr. Rolison will bring a great deal of experience in the political arena with him to the rostrum. At 37, he is the youngest man to hold the post of Dutchess County chairman of the Republican Party, elected by a unanimous vote, in 1964. He began as a Committeeman in the Town of Poughkeepsie, and less than two years later, in 1963, became Chairman of that Town's Republican Committee, the largest in Dutchess County.

Although the practice of law and political activities place heavy demands on his time, Mr. Rolison is an active member of Kiwanis, the Poughkeepsie Chamber of Commerce, Amritra Club, State and local Bar associations, and maintains a special interest in fireman affairs, as an active member of the Croft Corners Company of the Arlington Fire Department, having served as its secretary.

Originally from Madison, New Jersey, Mr. Rolison and his wife, the former Barbara Hanley of Morristown, N. J., have been residents of the Town of Poughkeepsie for 10 years. They have two children, Robert, 8, and Anne, age two. A 1951 graduate of Providence College, Providence, R. I., Mr. Rolison received his law degree from Fordham University Law School in 1954. He served in the Army with the Office of the Judge Advocate General at Fort Gordon, Georgia, from 1954 to 1956.

Tickets for the luncheon may be obtained by contacting Miss Cordelia Feltman or Mrs. Bernhard S. Kramer, chairman.

Rockefeller, Lindsay at Odds Over Tax Proposals for City

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Mayor John V. Lindsay shared a platform Thursday night but remained at odds over proposals for a tax program to soothe New York City's fiscal crisis.

The mayor and the governor, both Republicans, appeared at a dinner of the Republican State Committee. Earlier in the day, they had agreed to meet Monday in Albany.

After that meeting was agreed on, however, Lindsay went on television to repeat his plea for a city income tax. Rockefeller has publicly aligned himself with Republicans in the state legislature who have proposed a program centering on a real estate tax increase as a substitute for Lindsay's plan.

"It is the responsibility of the governor and the legislative leaders in Albany to grant this city the tools it has sought to serve the people who work and live in New York City," Lindsay said. "I urge them to fulfill that responsibility."

A Rousing Ovation

At the GOP dinner, Lindsay drew a rousing ovation at the start of his talk with two words: "Fellow Republicans." A year ago, speaking to the same group just after announcing his "fusion" candidacy for mayor, Lindsay carefully avoided mentioning his party affiliation.

Lindsay called for "patience and an open mind" as he tried to solve the city's problems.

Rockefeller—who officially opened his re-election campaign earlier in the day—spoke after Lindsay.

"Everyone in this room is behind you 100 per cent, John, in achieving your goals for New York City," Rockefeller said. After a deliberate pause, the governor added with a grin, "of course, it's just a question of how we do it."

The Monday meeting in Albany was proposed by Rockefeller, who also invited legislative and city council leaders.

In a telegram the governor said the meeting was needed because "despite serious efforts to compromise the differences of opinions regarding solutions to the financial problems of New York City, the situation has reached a stalemate. The city must adopt a budget before its fiscal year begins July 1. The stalemate can and must be resolved in the immediate future."

Telegrams Sent

Identical telegrams were sent at first to Lindsay, Senate Republican Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, Democratic Minority Leader Joseph Zaretzki, Democratic Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia and Assembly Republican Leader Perry B. Duryea.

Later the list was broadened to include Frank D. O'Connor, Democratic president of the City Council, David Ross, Democratic council majority leader, and Angelo Arculeo, leader of the Republican minority in the council.

Lindsay requested Rockefeller to invite them, the governor's office said.

All the parties agreed to the meeting.

Questions Dole System

In a speech Thursday afternoon before the Region IV meeting of the New York State Welfare Conference in Tarrytown, Mrs. Helen R. McClain, chief coordinator of the Dutchess County Office of Economic Opportunity, questioned the role of the welfare system in the welfare efforts failing miserably in their attempts to cope with poverty, because we have not understood that decency and dignity, not a dole, are what all human beings want," stated Mrs. McClain. "It seems incredible that we failed to develop preventive and rehabilitative programs, that we were content to see one family remain on welfare through three or even four generations. Dutchess County is the third richest county in the state. Yet, of the 41,477 families in the county, 5,212 or 12.6 per cent are living in poverty."

HonorScholarship Winners at Event Of Kiwanis Club

Terming "Education a science that teaches learning from birth to the full cycle of life," Arthur H. Withall, president of the Board of Education Kingston School System Consolidated, spoke before the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday on the occasion of the service club honoring its annual scholarship winners from the senior class of Kingston High School.

Vincent G. Connelly, chairman of the Kiwanis Scholarship Committee, acted as master of ceremonies for the program, and introduced the winners of the 1966 scholarship awards. Connelly told the Kiwanians that there had been 80 applicants for the scholarships which had to be reduced to the 15 winners.

Name Students

Students awarded the Kiwanis scholarships included Eli Basch, William Buddenhagen, David Bunch, Frank Hermance, and Francis Janasiewicz, $500 each; Cathy Ann Tomlinson, Patricia Tiano, Peter Wells, Linda Pirigyi, and James Lamb, Community College Scholarships of $100 each; Leo R. Russ, Community College Scholarship of $200; Janet Burger and Karen Kent, nursing scholarship of $100 each; Jeffery Maxwell, the Morris Sampter scholarship of $250; and Maureen Nichols the Ruby Appel Award of $35.

Withall, in his remarks concerning the progress of education, pointed to the development of formal education as evidenced in the public school systems. He stated that "the public school system was created to give the basics to all children," but also emphasized that the formal education ending with the high school diploma was now inadequate.

The speaker deplored the idea of "economic backgrounds determining education too often," and he cited the Kiwanis Club for its knowledge of this disturbing problem by helping in the awarding of scholarships. He said "this effort of the Kiwanis is a step in the right direction."

Withall pointed to the thought that professional educators are endeavoring to keep pace with the demand for education, and he indicated that in education as well as anything else, "there is no status quo — it either gets better or worse."

Need for Planning

The need for careful planning and expansion in the realm of education was stressed by the speaker, "in order to encompass additional opportunities." He

Striking Teachers Halted by Court

NEW YORK (AP)—State Supreme Court has turned down an attempt by 24 striking St. John's University teachers to stop the university from distributing catalogues listing them as faculty members.

The teachers, all members of the AFL-CIO United Federation of College Teachers, claimed the catalogue listings were erroneous and damaged their reputations.

Manhattan Supreme Court Justice Charles G. Tierney ruled, however, that "in this confused situation the claim of right is not made sufficiently clear and any further damage to be suffered would seem to be outweighed by recall and cessation of distribution so essential to the university's purposes."

In a separate action, the same teachers are seeking $100,000 damages each from the university, claiming libel and violation of their privacy.

New Paltz

Music Instruction

NEW PALTZ — Again this summer the New Paltz Central School offers a special opportunity to all pupils in the district who wish to continue their instrumental music lessons. Beginning lessons on all instruments will be given by Paul Steiner in the music room of the Central School.

There will be no tuition charge, but there is a rental fee for students who do not own an instrument. The rental fee will be according to the instrument desired.

Lessons will be Tuesday, July 5 to Friday, Aug. 19.

JV Cheerleaders

In a previous article about Junior Varsity Cheerleaders selected from New Paltz High School it was reported that Joanne Polizzi was selected. It should have been Kathy Keeping.

Senior Class Trip

June 10 the senior class at New Paltz High School under the advisement of Joseph DiBlanca, will make a trip to New York City. They will depart from New Paltz at 7:30 a. m. and will proceed to Coney Island to enjoy the rides, swimming and other attractions.

From Coney Island, they will go to Shea Stadium to see a night baseball game, between the Mets and the Reds. After the game the seniors will leave New York City, stopping at the Red Apple Restaurant.

Wants More Activity On Fraud Protection

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Louis J. Lefkowitz, state attorney general, called today for increased federal activity to protect the public against consumer frauds. The problem is one of "nation-wide proportions and no longer can be completely waged on the local and state level," Lefkowitz said in a talk prepared for delivery at the annual convention of the Union Label and Service Trades Department of the New York State AFL-CIO.

He said the public must be protected "against a fringe element of shady promoters whose chief aim seems to be to cheat the public in the sale of goods and services."

Old Timers Association Hall Inducts Westrum and Kiner

Ceremonies Set Sunday at Shea On Kiner's Show

Old Timers Baseball Association of Kingston will honor Manager Wes Westrum and Ralph Kiner, New York Met broadcaster, in a pre-game ceremony Sunday at Shea Stadium.

WES WESTRUM

Westrum and Kiner will be inducted into the local Old Timers Hall of Fame, as part of the second annual Old Timers Kingston Day at Shea Stadium.

The presentations will be made by John J. McCord, Old Timers president, on the Ralph Kiner TV show prior to the single game against the Cincinnati Reds.

Introduction of Westrum and Kiner brings to six the total of Met-connected personalities who have been inducted into the local hall.

Last year, more than 1200 area baseball fans participated in the first Kingston Day at Shea Stadium at which Manager Casey Stengel, John Murphy, Warren Spahn and Yogi Berra were inducted.

The ceremonies, which were telecast live, were held between games of a doubleheader with the Los Angeles Dodgers. The largest crowd ever to see the Mets play was present that day.

Was Area Player

Westrum, of course, has an extensive background of area baseball, having played with Poughkeepsie and the Kingston Recreationers during the war period. He was a member of the New York Giants' Bobby Thomson Miracle Team and in his heyday was regarded as one of the finest catchers in baseball.

Kiner was one of the great all-time home run hitters in National League history. At the end of the 1965 season, he ranked 16th among the all-time hitters with a career total of 369.

From 1946 through 1952, Kiner either led the National League outright or was tied for the lead. He paced the National in three consecutive years, 1949-1951.

Kiner compiled a career batting average of .279 in 10 major league seasons. He played nine years with the Pittsburgh Pirates and split his last season between the Chicago Cubs and Cleveland Indians. His top batting average was .313 in 1947.

The big right hander was the NL's slugging leader in 1947 with .639; 1949 with .658; and 1951 with .627.

His years as leader were: 1946, 26; 1947, 51 (tied with John Mize); 1948, 40 (tied with John Mize); 1949, 54; 1950, 47; 1951, 42; 1952, 37 (tied with Hank Sauer).

Jay Likes It Hot... And Humid

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Joey Jay flourished in Philadelphia's hot and humid Connie Mack Stadium and Jim Davenport didn't do so badly in the air conditioned comfort of Houston's Astrodome.

Operating in completely opposite climates Thursday night, Jay pitched a sharp five-hitter as Cincinnati beat Philadelphia 1-0 while Davenport's 11th inning double drove in two runs and lifted San Francisco to a 3-1 victory over Houston.

Jay perspired freely in the steamy atmosphere against the Phillies, but seemed to thrive on the heat.

"I guess I lost about 10 pounds," said the strong right-hander who won his sixth game in eight decisions.

Leo Cardenas drove home the only run Jay needed with an eighth inning single and then grabbed Dick Groat's hot grounder behind second and turned it into a game-ending double play in the ninth.

Davenport, who broke up a 17-inning game against New York with a homer earlier this season, delivered his big double to snap a tie that had existed since the fifth inning and beat Jim Owens, Houston's third pitcher.

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta stretched its winning streak to six games with an 8-4 victory over New York and St. Louis downed Pittsburgh 4-2.

Perez Ignites Rally

Tony Perez started Cincinnati's winning rally with a single after two were out in the eighth. Tommy Helms' fourth hit of the game moved pinch runner Dick Simpson around to third.

Then Cardenas' single broke the scoreless tie.

Willie McCovey ignited the Giants' winning rally with a single. After Jim Hart sacrificed, Tom Haller was intentionally walked, setting the stage for Davenport's big hit.

Rico Carty smacked four hits including a home run and Mack Jones tagged a three-run homer in Atlanta's five-run first inning as the Braves ripped the Mets.

Ken Boyer homered for New York.

Jerry Buchek and Phil Gagliano accounted for all the Cardinals runs with a pair of two-run homers as Al Jackson scattered eight hits for his fifth victory.

Both the homers came against rookie Woody Fryman, who lost his first game after four straight victories.

Roberto Clemente, who had three hits, homered for the Pirates.

Sunocos Trounce

Ted's Esso, 30-5

Dale's Sunoco routed Ted's Esso, 30-5, in one of those games in the Saugerties Softball League Thursday.

Blasting four Esso pitchers for 22 hits, Dale's scored 8 runs in three different innings, running up a 16-0 margin in the first two frames. The score set a new record for the season.

Batting heroes were a dime a dozen, as Darrell Johnson and Jack Lechner slugged four hits each and Dan Dargan had three, including two doubles. Al Erdlicka homered for Dale's, while John Hinchey and Mel Pfeil tripled.

Maurice Hinchey, who pitched six innings, was the winner. Woody Sperr took the loss. Jack Lechner and Rich Winnie each had three RBIs.

Next week's revised schedule follows:

Monday — McConekey's vs. Vidi Comms

Tuesday — Glasco AC vs. Antons

Wednesday — Ted's Esso vs. Miller's; and McConekey's vs. Dale's

Thursday — Southside vs. Antons; Glasco AC vs. Michael's

Hall Only Doubled

Twins' Five Homers

Ties Baseball Record

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Minnesota Twins trailed Kansas City 4-3 in the seventh inning when suddenly Rich Rollins homered. Then Zoilo Versalles homered, and Tony Oliva, and Don Mincher, and Harmon Killebrew.

That brought up Jimmie Hall, with a chance to set a major league record for most homers in one inning.

"I knew about the record," said Hall. "The announcer told everyone that we had tied the record when I was standing in the batter's box. It upset me a little. I know if I was the pitcher, I'd be bearing down that much more."

Hall eventually hit a pitch that hit high off the fence — and settled for a double.

"I'm going to fine Hall $100 for breaking up a rally," laughed Minnesota Manager Sam Mele, who hasn't had too much opportunity to do that this season.

Despite the homer hammering and the 9-4 victory, Mele's defending American League champions still are in sixth place — three games under the 500 mark and nine games behind front-running Baltimore.

Orioles In Stride

While the Twins still were trying to reach the first division, the Orioles took over first place from Cleveland by beating Washington twice while the Indians and New York Yankees were rained out.

Baltimore won a game that had been suspended Wednesday night, 8-6, and then came back for a 4-2 victory in the regularly scheduled game. In the only other American League game played, Detroit battered Boston 9-1.

The A's pulled out to a 4-0 lead against the Twins with Larry Stahl's bases-loaded triple the key blow in the first inning, uprisings against starter Camilo Pascual, Bob Allison

Sixth Meet Win For Santo Sal

MONTICELLO — Santo Sal, a five-year-old pacing gelding that only started two times in 1965, is Monticello's Raceway's rags to riches pacer this season. With a victory in Thursday night's featured fifth race, Santo Sal posted his sixth victory of the meeting to become the winningest horse in the Mighty M barn area.

Santo Sal has not obtained beautiful riches so far but the $3,890 he has earned at the mountain plant in seven races is much better than the $900 rags he had banked through his first three campaigns. In fact, $600 was his total earnings lifetime until kicking off his present campaign at Monticello.

Owned and trained by Martin "Cookie" Graney of Afton, New York, Santo Sal took a new record last night with his two length triumph over A-2 Amble. His time of 2:04 for driver Bobby Campbell was over two seconds faster than he had previously gone.

Five Horses on Top
The fast mile was in the offing when no less than five different horses took turns on top and posted fractions of :29.2, 1:00.3 and 1:32.3. As the gate left, Joe MacDonald was the first to seek the lead behind favored Vicki's Kid. He lead the field into the first turn.

As the second choice in the field, he returned $6.80, 3.60 and 3.40 around the board.

The 5 and 1 daily double paid $23.00. Winning horses were Demonic in the first and Pea Shooter in the second.

Winning combinations of 2-3-1-2 in the twin double paid $110.80. There were 234 live tickets.

The perfecta paid $120, with the winning combination 2-7. A crowd of 3,352 was on hand to wager $239,038.

Bisons and Leafs Have Day in Sun

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The lowly Buffalo Bisons and the even lower Toronto Maple Leafs have each won an International League series from the once high-flying Richmond Braves and Jacksonville Suns.

The six-place Bisons took the final game of their series with fourth-placed Richmond Thursday night 5-3 for a 2-1 series edge. Before the series opened the Braves had won 11 of their past 15 starts.

The Maple Leafs, in seventh place, beat third-place Jacksonville 5-2 and took a series 1-1. It was the 10th victory for Toronto in its last 14 games. For the early season league leading Suns it was the 12th loss in 15 games.

The Columbus-Rochester and Toledo-Syracuse games were rained out.

The Buffalo win came behind the strong relief pitching of Darrell Osteen, with Lee May and Len Boehmer providing the batting punch.

Osteen gave up just one run and two hits in the last four innings. May cracked out a double and a triple and Boehmer had a homer and a single.

An eighth inning surge that saw four runs, including a three-run homer by player-coach Russ Gibson, accounted for the Maple Leafs' victory. Toronto pitcher Pete Magrini notched his third straight triumph, giving up six hits.

A YANKEE DOODLE DANDY: That's trotter Jack Daniel, an entry in tonight's Yankee Trot, at Monticello Raceway, who is giving trainer-driver Joe MacDonald an affectionate nibble on the hand. Jack Daniel, owned by Mrs. W. H. Hyatt of Franklin, Tenn. helps to celebrate the 160th anniversary of harness racing with tonight's race named in honor of the first horse ever to race faster than 3:00, a feat accomplished on June 10, 1806.

Mighty M Celebrates 160th Birthday of U. S. Trotting

Monticello Raceway celebrates the 160th anniversary of harness racing on the North American continent tonight the Yankee Trot. A $4,000 test, the Yankee has drawn a strong field of six, headed by Levi Harner's 3-1 favorite, Scandalous.

Official designation of 1966 as the 160th birthday of the sport was caused by a New York historian's findings of a date. The date, June 10, 1806, was one on which harness racing in the United States first became a sport of record as the first 3:00 race mile was carved by a horse named Yankee.

Monticello's Yankee brings forth five other crack trotters in addition to the Ted Zornow owned Scandalous. They are Bill Popfinger's Tippecary; Joe MacDonald's Jack Daniel; Al Burton's Victory Camp; Bud Gil-mours' Gerard Mir and Jack Quinn's Master Star.

Settle on Date

The Harness Racing Institute, publicity arm for the sport, felt it was about time harnessdom had an official birth date. Since nothing has been uncovered prior to the historic 1806 birth date, the Institute has designated it harness racing's birthday for the time being, at least, if not permanently.

By 1806, trotting races were established sufficiently to warrant formal contests on measured ovals. Prior to that road-way "tests of speed" had been a practice of sports-minded Americans. It was common to see two trotters, hooked to driving carriages, streaking down a road in a head to head duel. But, it was not until Yankee broke three minutes that the race track sport of record began.

Name 6 Captains For Army Squads

WEST POINT — Captains for the Army basketball and five spring sports teams were announced here this week.

Dan Schrage, center from Breese, Ill., will be the 1966-67 basketball captain. One of the shortest centers in college basketball at 6 feet-1 inch, Dan's rebounding was instrumental in Army's success in the NIT. He's a two-year letterman and considered Army's best defensive player.

John Borette, center fielder from Medford, Mass., will be the baseball captain. Borette batted .304 and led Army in hits (24), runs (26) and stolen bases (9) as the Cadets repeated as Eastern Intercollegiate champions. He handled 31 chances in the field without an error.

Andy Nusbaum of Salina, Kans., will be the golf captain. Andy played in the No. 1 spot all year and compiled a 9-5 record for the season.

Chris Pettit of Huntington, N. Y., will be the lacrosse captain. Named to the Cyrus Miller all-star team as a first line attacker, Pettit topped the Army scoring this year with 19 goals and 10 assists.

Joe Hardin of Fort Jay, N. Y., will again be the tennis captain. The only junior captain at Army this year, Hardin led five sophomores to an upset win over Navy.

John Graham of Pearlsburg, Va., will be captain of both the indoor and outdoor track teams. Jack is a consistent winner in the 35-pound weight event indoors and the hammer throw outdoors.

Satellites Will Go Aloft Wednesday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Seven military communication satellites that could link Washington, Viet Nam and military bases around the globe rocket aloft on a single Air Force Titan 3 rocket next Wednesday.

The Air Force said the satellites — each weighing about 100 pounds — will be kicked into orbit by spring devices after the triple-barreled Titan 3 executes a series of tricky maneuvers over a six-hour period to achieve an orbit 21,000 miles high.

Meanwhile, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said 17 of 21 experiments riding on America's orbiting OGO 3 satellite were successfully commanded Thursday and have begun beaming back data on secrets of the sun's relations to earth.

The other four experiments will be turned on later. OGO — for Orbiting Geophysical Observatory — was launched Monday in an orbit ranging from 170 to 75,768 miles above the earth. OGO 3 is to study solar wind, solar flares, magnetic field disturbances, radiation and chemistry in space. This first bundle of seven military communication satellites is designed to show whether a military communication satellite system is feasible.

Commends Representation At Annual TB, Health Dinner

Warmly impressed by what he described as the "wide diversification of interests" represented by the Ulster County TB and Health Association, Dr. Robert L. Yeager, guest speaker at the groups 57th Annual Dinner Meeting, Tuesday evening at Governor Clinton Hotel added: "I have talked to varied groups in many states — I do not think that I have seen a gathering at which there has been representation of so very many different groups."

"If your representatives of these varied groups will support our movement for the eradication of tuberculosis and control of the other respiratory pulmonary diseases, I think that we stand some chance then of getting this done."

130 Attend

Dr. Yeager referred to the 130 guests who were present at the TB Association's dinner session, from a wide number of institutions, agencies, organizations and special interests.

Dr. Herbert F. Schwartz, TB Association president, introduced Dr. Yeager noting that he'd known him many years as one "whose devotion makes him extend himself far beyond the call of duty." Dr. Yeager is medical director of the Summit Park Sanatorium, president-elect of the American Thoracic Society, and a leading man in his field in the country.

Dr. Yeager told the group that "the drama has gone out of this disease (TB) as compared to the days when we started the work years ago; yet it still is not under control." He added that interested people must realize the facts of TB "so that you'll know why it is so that those of us who have been working along medical lines of this disease have had no more success than we have."

In concern with "Protecting Our Youth" the TB dinner and program theme, Dr. Yeager noted "we must work with children before they contract TB. He pointed out that about one to two per cent of those exposed to active TB actually break down but that every year a few more of the exposed group also will show reaction, that TB will be dormant for years and then suddenly break forth. This is the difficulty of the task of eradication which with great cooperative effort should be attained soon after our life time."

Refers to Steps

Referring to the specific steps that must be followed for TB eradication and control, he outlined the three essentials clearly established by the National Tuberculosis Association, the Surgeon General's TB Task Force and Arden House. First, to provide facilities for the treatment of active TB, which he pointed out was being done here. Secondly, he dealt strongly with the great need for the cooperation of the TB group and the Department of Health in extending case-finding and particularly the examination of contacts. "I don't think any of us has done very well in this," he noted, adding that modern knowledge tells us that despite the fact that it is hard work and costs money, that examination of contacts must include not just household or close contacts, but all casual contacts, "or we'll miss cases developing TB."

Dr. Yeager firmly emphasized the third point, prevention of TB infection in the young by preventing contact with TB. He pointed out that protecting the environment of where our children must be particularly required the cooperation of agencies and concerned people in a close, effective working relationship.

In the work to protect our youth from TB in Ulster County, Dr. Yeager referred to the necessary program as now established in Rockland County; involving the TB association and the Department of Health. This must include provision of the Tuberculin Test and X-ray for students, and X-rays for teachers, staff and bus drivers of county schools. By the use of commercial X-ray units schools share the cost with the TB association. With these established he outlined also a TB surveillance program of testing selected grades and maintaining records adding: "it's not easy to find these last cases of Tuberculosis. It's hard to keep such records, but if we don't do it, we aren't tending to eradicate the disease."

Dr. Schwartz keyed the TB Voluntary Health Program to the great voluntary heritage described by the 19th century French traveler, Alexis deTougeville and pointed up the current trend that when our citizens want a civic job done, the "Let George do it" philosophy prevails. "This does not apply to the people who are represented here tonight," Dr. Schwartz continued. "You are the people who do not believe in letting George Washington do it. You people have the moral fibre and the moral conscience that makes America what it has been and what we hope it will continue to be. Let us get some of the 'Let George do it's' to join us and let them realize what a sense of satisfaction there is in doing it ourselves rather than letting George do it."

Two special awards at the dinner highlighted the TB Association's strong volunteer structure. Honored with Distinguished Service awards were Miss Almena A. Porter and Miss Mabel L. Robinson, full-time association professional program volunteers. Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr., association president emeritus, awarded the association's 29th School Press Project National Certificates of Honor to the winning health education entries of the Bennett Banner, Bennett School, Ontario Central System; "Chatter Box," School 7, Kingston Consolidated; and "Finn Flash," Sophie Finn School, Kingston Consolidated. Augustus Modjeska presented the Nominating Committee reports for Board of Director elections and E. Robert Johnson, association Executive Director, outlined "Tuberculosis-Respiratory Disease. Plan for Action," the association's 1966-67 health program of work. The Rev. George D. Wood gave the invocation, and the closing prayer was led by J. Carleton Burrell, Seminary Associate of Old Dutch Church of Kingston.

The annual dinner meeting committee had Miss Katherine M. Murphy as chairman, assisted by Mrs. C. Frederick Heider of Gardiner and Mrs. James E. Norton and William J. Ryan, both of Kingston.

Still Key Issues

Wilson Charges Dems Dragging Albany Session

Ulster County Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson charged today that the members of the Democrat majority in the State Assembly are apparently "dragging their feet" on certain key issues now before the Legislature, and are causing the current session to limp on towards the summer months.

Assemblyman Wilson said that what is now going on in Albany is making the State Legislature look somewhat ridiculous, and could lead to the passage of some poor legislation by those who might be anxious to wind up the session and get home, particularly those Senators and Assemblymen who will be facing primary fights on the 28th of this month.

Assemblyman Wilson commented that "adjournment fever" seems to be having its effect on many of the lawmakers, and that some legislators seem to be taking the attitude that they should get out of Albany "before they do any more damage."

Wilson said, however, that before the 1966 session can be adjourned several vital issues must still be resolved, including needed amendments to the new Medicaid law, the New York City tax package, additional school aid legislation, the proposed amendments to the Condon-Wadlin labor law, and of course, the supplemental budget.

The Assemblyman said that the Republican and Democrat leadership in the Legislature was hopeful that some sort of compromise might be arrived at on certain items of legislation, but he was fearful that on some issues, namely amendments to Medicaid and Condon-Wadlin, the two parties were hopelessly deadlocked.

According to Assemblyman Wilson, he is certainly as anxious as any other lawmaker to see the current session come to a close, and be able to return to his duties in the county, as there is much that a legislator must do in his home district between sessions of the Legislature. But Wilson was also well aware of the fact that the Senate and Assembly have a great deal of important work to do before they can adjourn. Assemblyman Wilson said "this year's protracted sessions, just like the 1965 session, is the responsibility of the Democrats, and when they finally decide to act like true legislators, then and only then will the session end."

Charges Filed By Government

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal grand jury has filed charges against three individuals and four corporations as the government stepped up its campaign against pollution of the Hudson River and nearby waters.

The charges were in criminal informations (accusations) filed in U.S. District Court Thursday. The defendants were charged with illegal dumping of refuse or river bank littering along New York navigable waters.

Conviction could bring penalties up to a year in jail and a $2,500 fine for an individual and a $2,500 fine for a corporation.

U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau said: "My office is stepping up its efforts to prosecute those guilty of polluting the Hudson River. The dumping of debris into navigable waters is dangerous because of pollution and navigational hazards."
